THE REBEL ROUT.

Lee's Retreat Cut Off by Sheridan.

BURKESVILLE IN OUR POSSESSION

Lee's Army at Amelia Court House, East of Burkesville.

A Junction Between Lee's Forces and Johnston's Now Impossible.

Sheridan Hopes to Capture the Whole Rebel Army.

The Infantry Moving Rapidly to His Support.

General Grant at Sheridan's Headquarters.

[OFFICIAL.]

War Department, Washington, April 6, 1865—12 o'clock noon.

Maj. Gen. Dix:

The following telegram announces the probable speedy destruction of Gen. Lee's army if our troops get up to support Sheridan, who has headed off the enemy.

Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War.

Junction Southside and Danville Railroad, Burkesville, Va., April 5—10 o'clock P. M.

Hon. Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Lieut. Gen. Grant received the following dispatch at 6:30 P. M., while on his way to this point, and at once proceeded to Gen. Sheridan's headquarters. Gen. Grant desired me to transmit the dispatch to you, on the opening of the telegraph at this place, and to say that the Sixth Corps, without doubt, reached Gen. Sheridan's position within an hour or two after the dispatch was written. Two divisions of the Twenty-fourth Corps will encamp here to-night, and one division of the Twenty-fifth Army Corps at Black's and White's Station, Southside Railroad.

S. Williams, Brig.-Gen.

DISPATCH FROM GEN. SHERIDAN.

Headquarters Cavalry, Jetersville, April 5—3 P. M.

To Lieut. U. S. Grant:

General: I send you the enclosed letter, which will give you an idea of the condition of the enemy and their whereabouts. I sent Gen. Davies' brigade this morning around on my left flank. He captured, at Fame's Cross Roads, five pieces artillery, about two hundred wagons and eight or nine battle-flags, and a number of prisoners. The Second Army Corps is now coming up. I wish you were here yourself. I feel confident of capturing the army of Northern Virginia if we exert ourselves. I see no escape for Lee. I will put all my cavalry out on our left flank, except McKenzie, who is now on the right.

(Signed,) P. H. Sheridan, Major-General.

THE LETTER.

Amelia Court-House, April 5, 1865.

Dear Mamma: Our army is ruined, I fear. We are all safe as yet. Shyron left us sick; John Taylor is well; saw him yesterday. We are in line of battle this evening. Gen. Robert Lee is in the field, near us. My trust is still in the justice of our cause and in God. Gen. Hill is killed. I saw Murray a few moments since. Bernard Terry, it is said, was taken prisoner, but managed to get out. I send this by a negro, I see passing up the railroad to Michlenburgh. Love to all.

Your devoted son,

W. B. TAYLOR, Colonel.

FROM PETERSBURGH.

The Glorious 2d April—Great Struggle along Our Lines—Conflagration—Terrific Explosion—Rebel Flight—Our Entrance Into Petersburgh and Richmond.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Petersburgh, Monday, April 3, 1865.

It is really worth any amount of past labor and suffering to go through such glorious excitement as has attended the last 48 eventful and historic hours which have just rolled over us. If we, who have been only lookers-on and chroniclers on the grim outskirts of war, feel so intensely, what must it be, in this hour of consummate victory, for those who have been so long shouldering the musket or wielding the sword in the deadly struggle?—for that great man who, to-day, sees realized and brought to fruition all the sublime calculations upon which he has been so long engaged, and the noble, but formerly ill-fated Army of the Potomac, placed, at one majestic bound, and by his doing, upon a pinnacle far beyond the sneers and carpings of those who had hitherto disparagingly contrasted it with other armies of the United States? What feelings must thrill the bosom of that trusty and noble-hearted pilot who has, for four long, dreary years of unceasing and anxious watching, seen the noble ark not only of American, but of all human liberties, struggling against a Lee-shore, now safely and unquestionably launched upon the broad and placid waters of unfailing peace and prosperity? Abraham Lincoln, in person, sitting by Grant to-day in the "Cockade City," as the latter pensively smokes his cigar, surrounded by his trusty Lieutenants, and watching his conquering legions swarming streets but five or six hours ago held by the enemy! perhaps to-morrow or next day occupying the very chair of the arch-rebel Davis, in Richmond itself, (for the telegraph will have long since told you that Weitzel entered it at 8:15 this morning,) while the latter, with the "unconquerable" Lee and his demoralized and disheartened remnants of an army are flying—God knows where—from the wrath to come! Can the nation require a better picture of overruling and decisive victory? Can the world require any further proofs that the rebellion is now, in reality, crushed, and forever?

The day, evening and night of Sunday, April 2, can never be forgotten by any one who was with this army. From the hour of my arrival at Hancock's Station, near which are the headquarters of the Second Division of the Ninth Army Corps, under Maj.-Gen. R. B. Potter, then lying prostrate from a painful, but it is hoped not dangerous wound, received while gallantly cheering on his men in the recent great rebel assault, the fighting, which was then and had been long raging furiously along our whole line, and particularly in front of the Ninth Corps, (where are situated Forts Sedgwick and Mahone, so expressively known among the soldiers who occupy them as Forts "Hell" and "Damnation,") became infinitely more virulent as night came on, and was continued uninterruptedly until past midnight. The rebels were determined to regain the forts we had wrested from them, and upon which the fate of Petersburgh, Richmond, indeed the Confederacy itself, depended. Our men were just as determined that they should not regain one foot of lost ground, and the contest was dreadful.

It was about 3 A. M. to-day, the ever-memorable 3d April, when having concluded the long and irksome, but very necessary, task of sending the names of several hundreds of our wounded officers and soldiers, in the division hospitals of the Ninth Corps, I sallied out into the calm starlit night air to watch the progress of events. A dead and ominous silence rested over everything, and seemed almost awful in contrast with the deafening roar of artillery and musketry to which the ear had been so long accustomed. The overtaxed surgeons, fairly worn out by three days and nights of unceasing labor at the operation-table and the crowded wards, had laid down to take an hour or two of fitful sleep; so had the equally tired stewards and other hospital officials. The last ambulance had brought and silently deposited in the hands of the surgeons its sorrowful freight of human agony, and gone away to its quarters. Not a sound could be heard to break the solemn silence, save the occasional suppressed groan of some brave sufferer, whose torture was too great for even his manhood to bear unmurmuringly; the faint call of some other to a nurse to give him a drink of water or help to change his position; or an occasional shell whirled from our batteries, madly shrieking through the blackness of the air, and with such fearful distinctness that the ear could trace with perfect accuracy its curvilinear passage, as it went whirring onward and apparently burst clean over Petersburgh. But that which riveted my attention most, was the magnificent spectacle of the conflagration raging in the town of Petersburgh, and which seemed, at that distance, to envelope a large portion of it in lurid flame. It had been burning during the day, but its appearance now was heightened by its vivid contrast with the darkness of night, and was sublime beyond expression. To my astonishment I saw also, precisely in the direction which Richmond should occupy, another, and seemingly still larger conflagration. Could Lee have committed the cruel and ridiculous trick of converting into miniature Moscows both Richmond and Petersburgh; for both of which—apart from the great moral effect of conquering and possessing them—Uncle Sam would not give the snap of his finger?

Another thing arrested my attention. Loud cheers had, from time to time during the night, been heard proceeding from our lines, and which was construed into the delight of our boys as they succeeded in repelling each successive attack of the rebels. These cheers had now ceased, and not a single musket had been heard for some time previous to that of which I write. What was the meaning of this? Had both parties, fairly exhausted, laid down to rest? or had the enemy, finding his efforts useless, considered the battle over for the present?

While cogitating these matters, I suddenly saw—immediately near the fire which I supposed to be in Richmond—a huge mass of fire dart up, in the shape of an inverted cone, so high that it seemed to reach the clouds, and so intensely vivid as to light up the entire firmament. It was exactly like what I had seen when the grand old Mississippi blew up, at the siege of Port Hudson. I knew a magazine had exploded, and waited, with charmed interest, the report that I knew a few seconds would bring. It came, and was so tremendous, though at a distance of not less than twenty-five miles, that it seemed to shake the very earth on which I stood. Some of the doctors and others connected with the hospitals, startled in their slumbers, ran out to see the cause of the noise. When we were considering, just about the hour when night melts into dawn, we suddenly heard vociferous cheers burst from apparently thousands of throats. They evidently came from the honest, hearty lungs of our brave fellows. There was no mistaking that soul-stirring sound for the wild, savage, bitter yell in which the rebels indulge. Again and again the cheers were repeated, at short intervals, quite as vociferous, but apparently getting fainter and fainter. The joyous, suspicious sound found utterance among us, and received confirmation before day had fairly broken. The rebels had fled! Our boys had rent the air with cheers, as they entered and found work after work abandoned, which they had for long months been so fearfully struggling for, by day and night. The glorious victory was won! The last faint shouts had proceeded from our men in the heart of the rebellious City of Petersburgh itself, where the stars and stripes were already proudly floating from the summit of the court-house dome, placed there by the First Michigan Sharpshooters, who were the first to enter the city. As to the mysterious explosion, it has since been discovered that it was the blowing up of the rebel ram, or rams, in Richmond.

It is impossible to convey any idea of the joy and excitement that prevailed as the stunning news ran like wildfire among our people. The army moves with a decision and celerity quite inconceivable in any other walk of life. Instantly old quarters, made so comfortable that one would think some of the inmates intended to live there forever, are turned inside out; every man vaults into his saddle and is off, and one short hour will see the most busy military community converted into a lonely desert. One of your correspondents—Mr. Young—had already gone off like a streak of greased lightning, and was one of the first, if not the first, who must have dated his letter from Petersburgh. I remained—a fretful prisoner at Hancock's Station—to see our matter of the night and early morning dispatched by the mail-car, which leaves at 8 A. M., immediately after which I started for Petersburgh.

Oh! the delight of that trip, along with the hardy veterans covering the road for miles—most of whom had shared in the desperate work of only a few hours ago—as they made the air ring with their laughter and cheers, while a band would now and then march us along to the air of "Cheer, Boys, Cheer," "Yankee Doodle," &c. The day was most enchanting—the distance scarcely over two and a half miles from where we started—and so I preferred accompanying them on foot, as affording me a better chance of examining the forts at my leisure. Our wounded had been, long since, removed to places of care and comfort, and burying parties had been for some hours engaged in disposing of the dead bodies; but still many lay there—Union and rebel—in all the ghastly variety of contorted faces and limbs, and hideous mutilation—just where death had stricken them down. I came upon a youth, laying flat upon his back, his upturned face exhibiting an expression very like a smile. He had cautiously buttoned to his vest the envelope of an old letter, which gave the following address: "Wm. B. Adair, Co. K, Two Hundred and Eleventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, Second Brigade, Third Division, Ninth Corps!" Brave boy! he, for one, had died while doing his duty, for I found him close to the very edge of the second line of rebel works.

No one on examining our works can wonder how Gen. Grant has been so long enabled to keep them like an iron collar around the neck of Lee. The rebel works, although more slovenly in their arrangements, and exhibiting far more traces of damage from our fire than ours do from theirs, are nevertheless, very strong, and it is quite certain that they might have defied us much longer yet if Gen. Grant had not such a knack of attacking our enemy in half a dozen different plans at once, and bringing him to his senses as much by want as by direct assault.

Long before we reached Petersburgh the colored people, in stray parties of three and four, came to greet us; people that perhaps the day before would not be allowed to stroll out of the confines of the town, lest they should be escaping to the "Yanks." Even free colored people were kept to unpaid labor for the government, and they looked like folks just escaped from a prison.

Petersburgh, approached as we came, by the Jerusalem plank road, is hidden from the visitor until fairly arrived at it, by a bluff and deep ravine, at the bottom of which runs a tortuous little stream that joins the Appomattox. Crossing this stream, and mounting the bluff, the whole city bursts full upon the view, and looks very pretty, covering the whole undulating surface sloping down to the Appomattox, and agreeably interspersed with buildings and trees. Sycamore-street, the principal street by which we entered, is very pretty, having handsome detached houses on each side, with fine gardens attached, all full of evergreens.

The President is still here, and had almost to run along the City Point wharf yesterday—when returning from Petersburgh—to escape the anxious importunity of the hundreds who were rushing to see him. It would be a glorious thing to meet him in Richmond, and I hope to have the pleasure. Heaven knows that the aspirations of his noble heart have been gratified enough during the last few days to satisfy even his longings for the good of his country.

THE PURSUIT OF LEE.

Evidences of the Precipitate Flight of the Enemy—The Roads Strewn with Arms, Caissons and Wagons—The Rebels Fighting without Spirit.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Aurelia County, Va., Wintacomack Creek, One and a Half Miles South of Appomattox, Monday, April 3.

This morning Custer's division left camp at a point several miles east of Namozine Creek, and made a rapid movement up what is called the Namozine road, leading into Aurelia County. At the ford on Namozine Creek the rebels were found to be strongly intrenched behind earthworks to cover the crossing. The Eighth New-York, Major Bliss, of Wells' brigade, had the advance. A part of the First Vermont, under Capt. Haseltine, went up the stream a short distance and succeeded in effecting a crossing, flanking the enemy's position. Lord's section of artillery was brought up within easy range to the left of the ford, and simultaneously the ball was opened, firing grape shot at easy range. The enemy were so taken by surprise, they having supposed that the river was not fordable at any other place than where guarded, that they fled in the wildest confusion after a very brief skirmish. Col. Wells, continued the pursuit as rapidly as possible, the enemy endeavoring to obstruct the road by felling trees and piling the rails across, and at several points caissons were emptied, and the contents surrounded by fire, with the devilish hope that some of our daring riders in the advance might be killed.

The road bore abundant evidence of the haste the enemy were in. A number of caissons and wagons were overhauled, disabled, and arms, accoutrements, blankets, clothing and cartridges were to be seen on either hand. When near Namozine Church the enemy made a stand, and the whole Eighth New-York charged and carried the place, without materially interrupting the advance of the column. In this charge Capt. Goodridge was mortally wounded; Capt. C. T. Van Duzer received a flesh wound in the thigh; Corp. Elwood, Company B, was killed; Corp. George Grass, Company H, flesh wound in forehead; H. H. Fairbanks, Company G, finger; P. M. Burton, Company B, wounded in abdomen, dangerous, and Oscar C. Palmer, Co. B, slightly in shoulder. The First Vermont, Lieut.-Col. Hall, being the advance regiment of the main column, supported the movement, and Sergt. Jas. Bohan, Co. A, was mortally wounded, having received a ball through his right lung. The Fifteenth New-York, Col. Coppinger, coming up also in support of the movement, had First Sergt. John McGough, Co. A, Capt. Skiff, killed.

From this point the enemy, when once started, fled in confusion again, and Wells continued the pursuit on toward Bevel's Bridge across the Appomattox, twelves miles distant, having up to this point, besides capturing a flag and recapturing some prisoners, taken from the Second Corps, captured wagons and caissons, and about one hundred prisoners while fighting. The number gathered in during the day I shall give at the close of this letter.

At Namozine Church, Capehart's brigade took the road toward the Appomattox, while Wells pushed forward on a road to the left. In front of Wells the enemy made several attempts to make a stand after the affair at Namozine Church. They were in every instance dispersed at a dash, until nine miles had been gained, when a large force of infantry was met, and the column rejoined the main column to the right. Wells' command captured one piece of artillery, about three hundred and fifty prisoners, and a number of caissons and wagons. Capehart, on the River Road, moved up to near Deep Creek, capturing nine caissons, fifteen or twenty abandoned wagons, and about one hundred and fifty prisoners. Lieut. Custer, who was with Wells' advance guard, captured a battle-flag. Maj. Cummings, of the First Vermont, rode up to the very side of Fitz Lee and captured his Adjutant-General. Maj. Ferguson, of the Eighth New-York, captured Maj. Foote, Aid to Bushrod Johnson.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Deep Creek Run, Tuesday Morning, April 4, via Washington, April 6.

In the hurry of writing yesterday, I omitted to mention that Gen. Branigan, commanding a brigade of cavalry in W. H. F. Lee's division, was captured. Five hundred of his men are cut off, and if time permits they will be brought in. In a skirmish last evening, after Pennington's brigade had reached the battle-ground, Capt. Fauel, of the Third New-Jersey, was wounded in three places—arm, neck, and thigh. His wounds, though of a serious character, and received by a less spirited man, might be considered mortal; still he says he does not intend to die yet, and there is hope of his recovery. Last evening Major Goodwin, of the First Connecticut, went out into the woods and captured thirteen men. Lieut. Vanbul, of the Third New-Jersey Cavalry, was slightly wounded yesterday.

The fact that two brigades of Custer's cavalry, as stated in my letter of yesterday, drove six brigades of rebel infantry and two divisions of cavalry, speaks volumes as to the demoralization of the enemy. Three men at one time yesterday brought in a Captain, one Lieutenant, and one hundred and eight privates.

Five pieces of artillery were captured yesterday, instead of one, as stated yesterday. Four pieces were found sheltered in a piece of woods by Major Young, Chief of Scouts, together with a number of loaded wagons.

In our front yesterday was a train of wagons 12 miles in length. This train left Richmond a few days ago, and was going southward when intercepted by our cavalry. It was the main train of the Army of Virginia; and had there been force enough at the front, the whole of the train would have been captured. As it is, the train was forced across the Appomattox at Beverly Bridge, from which place it cannot well get beyond our reach. No more time to write.

THE ATTACK ON MOBILE.

The Bombardment of the City Opened on March 30.

The Monitor Milwaukee Blown Up by a Torpedo.

Details of the Expedition from Our Own Correspondent.

The steamship Guiding Star, from New-Orleans, March 26, and Southwest Pass, the 28th, arrived yesterday.

The United States steamer Circassian arrived at Key West, April 2, and reported an attack of Union forces and gun-boats on Mobile, March 30. No particulars were obtained, except that the monitor Milwaukee was blown up off Dog River bar, by a torpedo.

The Guiding Star brings 2,794 bales cotton, 1,108 barrels flour, 1,000 sacks corn, 73 cases merchandise. The log reports: In consequence of detention by being run aground in Mississippi River by the pilot, had to stop at Key West to coal.

The steamer Empire City sailed from Key West, April 2; we passed her off Savannah, on the morning of April 4.

REPORTS FROM NEW-ORLEANS.

New-Orleans, Friday, March 31, Via Cairo, Thursday, April 6.

The Times and Delta say:

"Headquarters have received information that a portion of Gen. Canby's army was within four miles of Mobile, and siege guns were in position, from which shells could be thrown into the suburbs of the city. The attack on Fort Bradley, the main defence of Mobile, had already commenced. Maury commanded at Mobile, and Gen. Dick Taylor commanded the Spanish Fort. The bombardment of the latter commenced on the 28th. Gens. Canby, Granger and Smith were five miles up Fishing Creek on the 24th. There was heavy cannonading on the 22d, caused by the gunboats shelling the woods at the mouth of Fishing Creek."

New-Orleans, Saturday, April 1, via Cairo, April 6.

Gen. Steele's command, from Pensacola, met with much opposition, but no regular battle was fought until it reached Mitchell's Fork, on the morning of the 27th ult., where the enemy, numbering about 800, made a stand, and, after a severe fight, were repulsed and scattered in the woods, many being captured.

The correspondent of the New-Orleans Times writing from the headquarters of the Thirteenth Army Corps, near Blakely, on the 28th ult., says a party of guerrillas made a dash upon a wagon train stuck in the mud near Fish River, and captured ten mules and eight drivers. But all the wagons and stores were brought in yesterday.

There has been much skirmishing, but no regular battle has taken place as yet. The bombardment of the Spanish fort progresses favorably. Torpedoes thickly stud the approaches to the fort. Our skirmishers are within 200 yards, and our artillery within 300 of the fort. We have it encompassed on three sides.

Their only chance of escape is by water, but if a gunboat can get up they cannot escape that way.

Gen. Granger and staff narrowly escaped being blown up by a torpedo placed in the road.

Col. Bertram's brigade captured a rebel telegraph office and dispatches showing that the rebels are fully posted in relation to all our movements, forces and places. Gen. Steele captured two railroad supply trains at Pollard.

At last accounts our losses do not exceed 50 killed and 200 or 300 wounded.

Rebel steamers ply regularly between Mobile and the Spanish fort, conveying reinforcements and guns.

Two of our men have been injured by torpedoes near Mobile.

Where Fish River is—Movements of our Troops.

From our Own Correspondent.

Donnelly's Mills, near head of Fish River, Ala., Tuesday, March 21, 1865.

The most complete map of the United States ever published fails to notice the existence of Fish River. As your readers in general may not be posted in this section, geographically, I will tell them where and what Fish River is, and otherwise explain the above date.

Bon Secor Bay is the name of a sort of cove which constitutes the right arm of Mobile Bay. You pass up this arm, or cove, some seven miles to the northeast, and through a little channel pass into another small bay, less than a mile square, turn directly to the east, and you strike the mouth of Fish River, a deep, crooked stream, about fourteen miles in length, running almost due north. Donnelly's Mills, never before known in history, is so called, from the fact that a steam saw-mill, owned by a man named Donnelly, is located on the left bank of Fish River, about nine miles from its mouth. As I write, over 30,000 national troops are going into camp for the night, and it rains like fury.

THE MOVEMENT AGAINST MOBILE.

Mobile, as I have before informed you, is now next to Richmond the best fortified city in the Southern Confederacy. It has long been an eye sore to us, and some time ago—in fact immediately after the battle of Nashville—the great military eye of the republic was turned this way. Through your correspondents, and otherwise, you have thoroughly kept your readers posted in all the army movements of this section; therefore, suffice it to say, that on Sunday last, Gen. Canby's army, after six weeks of travel, &c., received marching orders,

FOR MOBILE DIRECT.

The Thirteenth Corps, Gen. Granger, started that morning by land, and moved up the right side of Bon Secor Bay, with orders to reach Fish River opposite Donnelly's Mills, before Wednesday noon. The next day A. G. Smith's Corps, the Sixteenth, embarked on board fourteen transports and six vessels of the Mosquito Fleet, from off Dauphin Island. A portion of the fleet arrived here yesterday. The balance of the boats arrived to-night. Gen. Granger's advance is also arriving, and the soldiers of both corps are "going to grass."

THE TRIP UP FISH RIVER.

I arrived at Dauphin Island from New-Orleans just in time to embark upon the Tarascon, one of the boats of the fleet. In all there were twenty odd boats, all of which were prepared, long before daylight, for the signal for starting, which was given at 9 A. M. The First Division, Gen. McArthur, took the lead, the Second Division, Gen. Garrard, followed, and the Third Division, Gen. Carr, brought up the rear. Going up the bay nothing occurred, except steamboat races, worthy of passing notice. In rounding into the bay, which leads into Fish River, several of the boats got stuck in the mud, the last of which was lighted and pulled off to-day. We struck the mouth of Fish River at half-past eleven. Here we looked for torpedoes and guerrillas; but, on the contrary, eager multitudes of blacks and whites, of both sexes, of all ages and conditions, flocked to the shores, and rent the very air with their vociferations of joy. In many cases, in all probability, these manifestations were of a bogus character; but on the whole it is my impression they were sincere. This is one of the most curious streams I have ever been upon. The water is deep enough for the largest boats that float, but it is so very narrow that boats over 280 feet in length could not turn around; it is also so very crooked that many of the transports were obliged to run their bow into shore, and then throw a line to the opposite bank, and pull around. The people along the shore actually was wonder-struck; and why shouldn't they have been, to see some of the most gorgeous and luxurious floating-palaces of the the Mississippi wandering such a stream. The condition of the land, upon either side of the river, is of a marshy nature, generally. There were, however, some few pretty farms under a high state of cultivation. Contrabands in great numbers stood along the shores, many of whom jumped upon our boats as they passed along. One of the great peculiarities of the forests upon either side is the great number of eagles and eagle nests, many of the latter being larger than a cart wheel.

THE LANDING.

The boats of the fleet have been arriving ever since 3 P. M. yesterday, those boats which met with no misfortune having all arrived before dark last night. Two boat loads have just come in, which is the last of the Sixteenth Corps. The Thirteenth Corps is also arriving, and is going into camp upon the left, making our line extend from "Donnelly's Mills" on the right, to "Tom Danton's" on the left, a distance of about six miles.

WHERE WE ARE.

Upon the south side of Cow Bend, a branch of Fish River, our left penetrates to within four miles of Mobile Bay, and we are just 27 miles from the mouth of Apalachee River, or 30 miles from Mobile. Sixteen miles up the bay is what is known as the Spanish fort, the last work built by the rebels. This was built to keep our craft from running up the eastern channel; but there were provisions made in its elevation to keep off a land force approaching as ours now does. This force contains sixteen heavy guns, eight of which form water batteries. I understand that to-morrow our monitors and gunboats have orders to assault Spanish Fort, and take it if possible. If they fail to take it, our plans may be materially disarranged. I do not believe, therefore, that we will move again for two or three days, although we were led to believe that we should be within sight of Mobile before the sunset of the 23d inst., and have come thus far without tents and without baggage, all of which were left at Dauphin Island, with a promise that it would soon be brought up.

THE ENEMY.

Opposite us, upon the north side of Cow Bend, is a small brigade of cavalry, under Col. Maury, a nephew of Gen. Dabney H., commanding at Mobile. With the exception of the force at Spanish Fort, this body constitutes all the rebel force this side of the defences at the mouth of the Tensaw and Appalachee Rivers. It is quite late as I close, and I hear no picket firing—nothing but the incessant clattering of rain-drops as large as marrowfat peas.

Arrival of Gen. Granger's Corps—Difficulties of Campaigning.

Thursday Night, March 23.

All is quiet on the banks of Fish. All day yesterday, and a portion of this forenoon the firing in the direction of Spanish Fort was heavy and incessant. It has been quiet, however, in the direction of the bay since 12 o'clock, and it is to be hoped that Spanish Fort has gone up.

Ten rebel cavalrymen, or scouts, made their appearance to-day in front of Gen. McArthur's picket line and fired a volley upon our videttes, which was returned, with no casualties upon either side. This is all the enemy that have been seen as yet.

Nearly all of Granger's corps has arrived. Two brigades are back yet. The roads traveled by this corps are pronounced wretchedly bad. Gen. Granger himself has arrived. I saw him to-day, the first time for two years. He looks badly, and complains of chills and fever.

Your correspondent is hobbling around himself. I awoke all of Gen. Garrard's Staff officers last night by a yell. The fact is, there was a young cyclone swept over our camp last night, tearing up trees, blowing down tents, and knocking down things indiscriminately. A pine tree blew down near me, striking me in the leg, and I fear I am badly injured.

I can tell you one thing—we've got mighty little to eat here. The troops are on half rations, and a day behind. The officers fare very badly, and have to pay fabulous sums to the resident merchants for young pigs and old chickens—but plenty of rations are expected.

I have never seen a finer camp—a magnificent pine forest, through which wonder a multiplicity of sparkling streams. Such little pets as snakes, lizzards and scorpions abound; but, then, as they merely crawl over one, when one is asleep, why, one don't mind them much.

From the Mississippi.

Cairo, Thursday, April 6.

The steamer Olive Branch from New-Orleans, had 746 bales and 22 bags of cotton for St. Louis.

John McKinney, a rebel sympathizer, confined at Memphis under the military order of Gen. Roberts, for the non-payment of a debt of $7,000, due northern parties, was turned over to the civil authorities recently by Gen. Washburne upon habeas corpus, and was released yesterday by the United States District Court upon the payment of costs. It is said he will commence a suit against Roberts for false imprisonment.

A hospital steamer has arrived from Vicksburgh, for St. Louis, with 470 exchanged prisoners from Andersonville and Cahawba. Eight hundred remain at Vicksburgh, awaiting transportation North.

The New-Jersey Legislature.

Trenton, Thursday, April 6.

Ex-Gov. Seymour, of New-York, visited our city to-day, and, accompanied by Gov. Parker, was introduced to both Houses of the Legislature.

The Hunterdon Farmers' Railroad Bill was defeated for the want of three votes. Objections were made that it would be used as a through route between New-York and Philadelphia.

There was a general illumination in our city yesterday, in honor of the recent victories of the Union arms.

The National Loan.

Philadelphia, Thursday, April 6.

Jay Cooke reports subscriptions to the Seven-thirty loan to-day, to the amount of $2,521,600, including $100,000 from Cleveland and $350,000 from New-York, and 1,769 individual subscriptions for $50 or $100 each.

THANKSGIVING FOR VICTORY.

Gov. Fenton Recommends Friday, April 14, to be Observed as a Day of Prayer, Thanksgiving and Praise Throughout the State of New-York.

PROCLAMATION BY REUBEN E. FENTON, GOVERNOR OF THE STATE OF NEW-YORK.

Richmond has fallen. The wicked men who governed the so-called Confederate States, have fled their capital, shorn of their power and influence. The rebel armies have been defeated, broken and scattered, and the formidable character of the rebellion is apparently at an end. Victory everywhere attends our banners, and our armies, under Providence, are rapidly moving to the closing scenes of the war. Through the self-sacrifice and heroic devotion of our soldiers, the life of the Republic has been saved, and the integrity of the American Union maintained.

In view of these important events of the achievements of our noble armies and their gallant leaders—in view of the progress made in suppressing the rebellion, and the encouraging prospects of the early return of peace, there is great cause for rejoicing, thanksgiving and praise. I, Reuben E. Fenton, Governor of the State of New-York, do, therefore, issue this, my proclamation, designating Friday, the fourteenth of April instant, (the day appointed for the ceremony of raising the United States flag on Fort Sumter) as a day of thanksgiving, prayer and praise, to Almighty God, for the signal blessings we have received at his hands; and I hereby recommend religious societies of all denominations to open their places of worship, and the people, abstaining from their usual avocations, to assemble therein, and with grateful hearts, unite in prayer and praise to Him, who has so mercifully remembered us in the hour of our greatest need and peril.

[L. S.] In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed the privy seal of the State, at the City of Albany, this sixth day of April, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five.

By the Governor. R. E. FENTON.

George S. Hastings, Private Secretary.

An Action for Damages Against the Second-avenue Railroad Company.

SUPERIOR COURT—PART II.

Before Justice Garvin and a Jury.

Ann Baxter vs. the Second-avenue Railroad Company.—The plaintiff in this suit is a woman about 40 years of age. On the 6th of January, 1864, while she was attempting to cross the Second-avenue, at Thirty-first-street, she accidently slipped and fell on the track of an up-going car. Before she could recover herself, the horses, with the car attached, struck her, and she was dragged, as she alleges, about thirty feet, and injured so seriously about the head, body and limbs as to be crippled for life. The agents of the company are charged with gross negligence in not using taken the requisite precautions in stopping the car. The plaintiff claims damages to the amount of $6,000. The trial was not concluded when the court adjourned. For plaintiff, Washington Murray, Esq.; for the defendants, Ex-Judge Slosson and John H. Platt, Esq.

What Constitutes a Sale by Sample?

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Judge Clerke and a Jury.

Wm. W. Stone, et al. vs. Wm. C. Browning, et al.—This action was brought to recover the sum of $14,392 and interest, which plaintiffs claimed were due them on the sale of 33,132 yards of sky blue kersey cloth, sold by them to the defendants on or about the 11th of March, 1863. The defence was that the sale was made by sample, and that the goods which were sent to the defendants in large boxes, did not answer the sample boxes which were open to their inspection at the time of the purchase. The case was submitted to the jury, who, after a short deliberation, rendered a verdict for the plaintiffs for the full amount claimed, with interest.

For plaintiff Mr. Tracy; for defendants Mr. A. Prentice.

Important to Common Carriers—Liabilities of Express Companies.

SUPERIOR COURT—PART I.

Before Justice Barbour and a Jury.

Abram J. Van Winkle vs. The Adams Express Company.—This action has become somewhat notorious from the fact that it has been tried several times before. The last trial was concluded yesterday by the rendition of a verdict for the plaintiff of $70 41 damages, and the value of the property in question was assessed at the sum of $292. The facts of the case are substantially as follows: The plaintiff, who was at the time a map publisher in this city, delivered at the office of the company in Broadway, on the 4th of March, 1859, a box containing maps and manuals, to be by the company conveyed to Shreveport, in the State of Louisiana. The box was addressed "S. D. Wood, care of Messrs. Dunn & Ritchie, Shreveport, La., C. O. D. $292." On the several trials it was proved that the agents of the company were by the terms of the agreement to collect $292 of the consignee at Shreveport, and that the letters "C. O. D." meant cash on delivery. At the time the defendants undertook to convey the box to Shreveport, it seems that they had no line of route to that place. They conveyed the goods to New-Orleans, which was the terminus of their route, there stored the goods, and wrote a letter to the consignee, informing him that they were there awaiting his order. They also informed him of the amount to be collected on the delivery of the same. No answer was received to the communication. It was also proved on a former trial that at the time of the commencement of the suit the box was carefully stored in New-Orleans. Judge Peabody to whom the case was referred, decided as a matter of law, in January, 1864, that the defendants undertook to carry said box to Shreveport, or as far thitherward as their route of transportation extended. That they undertook to forward the same from the end of their own route or line to Shreveport by other means of transportation suitable for the purpose of transportation and delivery, collecting the money and forwarding the same if collected, if such mode of transportation, delivery, &c., were to be had. That the evidence showed that there were modes of forwarding the box, by which it might have been forwarded, but did not show that they were safe and reliable and worthy to be intrusted with the carrying and delivery of the box, and with the collection and transmission of the money to be collected thereon. On this conclusion of the law and the facts, the plaintiff's complaint was dismissed and a judgment directed for the defendant. From this judgment the plaintiff appealed, and after a long delay obtained a new trial. The result is as above stated.

For plaintiff, Mr. B. C. Thayer; for defendant, Messrs. Owen, Gray & Owen.

Another Action Against Common Carriers—A Verdict Against the Erie Railway Company.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Judge Clerke and a Jury.

Edward Koyn vs. The Erie Railway Company.—The plaintiff in this action is an infant, and by his guardians brought the action against the company to recover the value of a package of merchandise which was destroyed on its transit from Dunkirk to this city. The defendants insisted that the plaintiff forwarded the goods under a special receipt; that the same were consumed by fire at the time of a collision that took place on the route without any fault or negligence on their part; and that it was expressly stated in the receipt given to plaintiff, that they would not be liable for the loss of the goods if consumed by fire in any of their depots, or while in transitu.

The counsel for the plaintiff contend that the fire was the result of gross negligence which caused the collision, and therefore the special receipt could not, and did not limit their liability; and furthermore that the plaintiff being an infant, was not bound by the receipt. The jury rendered a verdict for plaintiff for $574 69, the full amount claimed, with interest.

For plaintiff, H. Morrison; for defendants, Messrs. Eaton and Taller.

The Strong Divorce Case Postponed for the Term.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Before Justice Barbour.

Peter R. Strong vs. Mary E. Strong.—This cause being on the day calendar, yesterday, Mr. Cram, one of the counsel in the case, asked the Court to allow it to go off until the May Term.

Mr. McKeon, for the opposing party, said that under the circumstances he should consent to that disposition of it, provided, his opponents would consent to their examining witnesses out of court upon one day's notice, but he wanted it distinctly understood that it did not go off for the term on their account; they were ready.

The Court directed that it go off, especially as it was apparent that the new issues had not yet been settled, and hence the cause was not in a condition to be tried this month.

Another Verdict Against the City for Damages in the July Riots.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Judge Garvin and a Jury.

The Weehawken Ferry Company vs. The Mayor of New-York, &c.—This action was brought by the Weehawken Ferry Company to recover damages which they allege they have sustained by reason of their ferry-house having been set on fire by a mob during the riots of July, 1863. The testimony in the case went to show that on the 14th of July, 1863—the second day of the riots—the ferry-house was fired by the mob at a preconcerted signal; that it was done for the purpose of preventing any communication between that part of the city where the ferry-house was situated, and the Jersey shore. The court charged the jury that the question, which was purely of fact, was how much damage the plaintiffs had sustained. The jury, after a short deliberation, rendered a verdict of $5,317 93 for the plaintiff.

Damages for Not Securing a Horse Properly.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Justice Barbour and a Jury.

Susan Hart, Executrix, &c., vs. Robert McParlan, et al.—The jury in this case, which was fully reported in the Times of the 3d inst., came into court yesterday morning, with a sealed verdict, in which they gave the widow the sum of $800 damages for the loss of her husband. The most they could have given in any event is $5,000, the statute of this State, under which the action was brought, limiting damages to that amount.

Criminal Business.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Recorder Hoffman.

John Farrell, a boy of twelve or thirteen years, was brought up for trial, charged with grand larceny. His own father appeared as complainant, and stated that the boy had stolen $120 from him. He believed, however, his son had been induced to take the money by some other parties, and now desired to withdraw the complaint and take his son home. His Honor discharged the boy at the request of his father and mother.

John Denny was tried for passing a false token upon Jacob Braganza. The complainant testified that he kept a store in Mott-street, and that prisoner, in payment for some Ruine wine, gave him a check on the Market Bank for $50. Complainant gave him $15 in wine and $35 in money. On presentation at the bank, it was discovered that the drawer kept no account in the bank, and the check was bogus and utterly worthless. Witness testified that some soldiers who were in the store also told him that the check was good. On cross-examination he said he would not have taken the check on the sole representations of the prisoner, but was partly induced to give the money on the representation of the other men. A clerk in the Market Bank testified that no such person as the drawer of the check ever kept an account in that bank. The jury found the prisoner guilty, and he was remanded for sentence.

Margaret Maloney was tried for grand larceny. Mary Pine, of No. 103 Cherry-street, testified that the prisoner lived in the same house, in an upper room; that on the 20th of last month she lost $135 in money, which was stolen from a pocket-book that she placed under her pillow before retiring; prisoner saw the complainant put the money under her pillow, and was the only person who did see where she put her money; in the morning, when complainant awoke, the window was open and the money gone; prisoner had also vacated her rooms, and could not be found.

Catherine Lynch testified that she lived in the same house, and that on the night of the robbery the prisoner came into her room about half-past 2 o'clock in the morning, and showed her the pocket-book, saying that she had enough to get herself a silk dress, and to leave the Fourth Ward. On cross-examination, this witness declined to answer a question as to whether she had been in the State prison, but stated that she had passed the year 1864 in the country, at Sing-Sing village. His Honor said the inference was easily drawn as to what boarding-house she lived in, and as she was the only witness for the prosecution who testifies directly against the prisoner, it was the duty of the jury to acquit. A verdict of not guilty was rendered.

Ann Spear and Margaret Smith, jointly indicted for grand larceny, were tried.

William Shanahan, a discharged soldier, testified that on the 23d of March last he visited the house kept by one of these women, in Washington-street, and went to sleep there; when he went in he had $95 in his pocket; when he woke up it was all gone.

Officer Reed testified that he arrested these women; previous to the arrest he was attracted by seeing a light in the rooms occupied by them, and looked through the crack of the door; witness saw the complainant on the floor insensible and the prisoners rifling his pockets; when he arrested them, they gave up the money, stating that they had taken it for safe keeping.

The jury found them guilty, and his Honor sentenced Margaret Smith to be confined in the State Prison for two years and six months, and her confederate to a term of two years.

Josephine Buckingham was tried for grand larceny. Complainant testified that he was a soldier, and that on the 16th of last March he visited the prisoner, at No. 32 Howard-street, and slept there all night in her room. He put his money, amounting to $40, in his pantaloons pocket, which he hung over the back of a chair. The prisoner was with him all night, but was missing in the morning, and his money was missing too. When the prisoner was arrested nothing was found upon her person, and she denied her guilt. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty, and the court adjourned.

MEDICAL.

PRIVATE DISEASES CURED IN THE shortest possible time, by DR. WARD & CO., No. 62 Franklin-st., near Broadway, without the use of Mercury, loss of time or change of diet. Dr. WARD, from the hospitals of London, Paris and Edinburgh, is the discoverer of the only certain and reliable remedies for diseases of a private character. In 28 years practice he has cured more cases of Secret Diseases and Wrong Treatment than all others combined. I can and will cure you in less time and at less expense than any other can or will, and those who have been robbed of their money and health, call; it will take but little money and time to restore you. If you have been unfortunate, call at once. By his special experience in this much neglected branch of medical science, he is enabled to guarantee a cure in the most complicated cases. Recent cases of Gonorrhœa or Syphilis cured in a few days, without change of diet or hindrance from business. Secondary Syphilis—the last vestige eradicated without the use of Mercury. Involuntary emissions stopped in a short time. Sufferers from Impotency, or loss of sexual power, restored to full vigor in a few weeks, permanently and speedily cured by a new treatment. Persons at a distance failing to receive prompt treatment elsewhere, may get a permanent cure effected by writing a full diagnosis of their case, addressed to Dr. WARD, No. 61 Franklin-st. D., No. 61 Franklin-st., between Broadway and Elm-st., New-York.

CAUTION.—CHLORODYNE—IN CHANCERY.—It was clearly proved before Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood, by affidavits from eminent hospital physicians in London, that Dr. J. Collis Browne was the discoverer of Chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's.—See Times, Jan. 12, 1864. The public, therefore, are cautioned against using any other than Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S CHLORODYNE, which is affirmed by medical testimonials to be the most efficacious medicine ever discovered for Consumption, Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Spasms, Rheumatism, &c. No home should be without it. J. T. DAVENPORT, No. 33 Great Russell-st., London, sole manufacturer. Observe particularly, none genuine without the words "Dr. J. NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

Official and general dispatches from Grant's army and from Richmond continue to bring us good news. Our troops got possession of Burkesville, the place of junction of the Richmond and Danville, and Petersburgh and Lynchburgh Railroads, on Wednesday afternoon. Sheridan himself states that reinforcements were coming to him, and he feels confident of capturing Lee's army. Grant was, at last advices, only a few miles east of Burkesville, and Sheridan was operating north of Grant. No junction between Lee and Johnston is possible, and the retreat of the rebel Army of Virginia must be toward Lynchburgh and the mountains.

The United States steamship Circassian arrived at Key West April 2, and reported an attack of Union forces and gunboats on Mobile March 30. No particulars obtained except that the monitor Milwaukee was blown up off Dog River Bar by a torpedo. New-Orleans papers of the 31st say that a portion of Canby's forces were within five miles of Mobile, and some siege guns were in position to throw shells into the city. The attack upon the main defences had been already commenced.

Gov. Fenton yesterday issued a proclamation, recommending that Friday next, 14th inst., the day on which the old flag is to be reëstablished on the ruins of Fort Sumter, be observed in this State as a day of prayer, thanksgiving and praise to God, for the blessings received in the hour of our national peril.

The Pike County (Ill.) Democrat says a letter received from a citizen of that county, from his son, a member of the Ninety-ninth Illinois Regiment, stationed at New Orleans, states that all but a 170 of the regiment perished in a storm while on board of a transport in the Bay of Mobile.

Among the large buildings destroyed in Richmond were Haxall's Mills, the tobacco factories of Crew and of Smith, and the Mechanics Institute. The squares, bounded by Main-street, the river, and Seventh and Fifteenth streets, are in ruins.

It is reported that in exploding their magazines in Richmond, the rebels blew the Almshouse to fragments, killing or wounding every person in it. Breckinridge vainly protested against such brutality.

On Tuesday Mr. Lincoln gave a reception in the parlor of Jeff. Davis' house in Richmond. A number of citizens called upon him, besides the officers of our army and navy.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

In Senate, yesterday, bills were passed incorporating the Soldiers' Messenger Corps; amending the charter of the Manhattan Gas Company; incorporating the New-York Pier and Warehousing Company; to amend the charter of Troy relative to schools. The bill amending the Registry Law was ordered to a third reading; the Broadway Tunnel Railroad Bill was reported; the bill amending the act relative to the Harlem Bridge was then taken up, and John M. Dodd, George R. Jackson and Wm. Roberson were appointed commissioners; the bill was then ordered to a third reading. Mr. Fields introduced a bill authorizing an increase of the interest of 7 per cent. on New-York Riot bonds. The bill authorizing the incorporations of clubs and societies for certain social and recreative purposes, was passed. The bill authorizing the Second-avenue Railroad Company to lay new tracks was ordered to a third reading.

In the Assembly, the annual Supply Bill was ordered to a third reading; the bill to establish a permanent exterior line in the City of New-York was reconsidered, corrected and passed; a resolution to adjourn on the 13th was reconsidered and lost. A report was made on the contested seat from Albany County, giving it to Joseph Brook instead of Mr. Hungerford, who has thus far occupied it. The Senate's amendments to the Bounty Fund bill were passed. The State Charity bill was ordered to a third reading.

GENERAL NEWS.

News from Uruguay is to the middle of February. Montevideo was invested by a Brazilian army of 13,000 men and 20 vessels; the land defences were strong, but those of the water side were weak; they are garrisoned by about 5,000 men. While the government was determined upon a desperate defence, the foreign residents were in a great state of alarm, mainly through fear that the powder magazine might be exploded, which would be certain to destroy nearly the entire city. The Paraguayans had taken the town of Miranda, dispersing the Brazilian garrison.

News from Havana to the 29th inst., confirms the report of the defeat and death of Marechal, the French Commandant at Vera Cruz. On his return from a pillaging expedition, while in a ravine, he was attacked by about 400 Liberals, he himself killed, and about 150 of his soldiers killed and wounded. His body was not found. Some say it was cut into small pieces and thrown away, while others that he was buried decently by the Liberals.

At the opening of the April term of the United States Court at Cincinnati, all the lawyers practising therein were required to take the oath of loyalty prescribed in the act of July, 1862. Nineteen in all took the oath, two of them making some technical protests. Geo. E. Pugh declined to take it immediately, stating that he believed it unconstitutional, and desired time to consider the subject. Wm. M. Corry refused entirely, and immediately surrendered up the business which he had in hand in the court.

In St. Louis, on Monday, the entire Radical ticket for local officers was elected by about 3,000 majority. No other result was anticipated.

LOCAL NEWS.

Peter Cooper writes a letter warmly approving the new Fire Department Law, and returning his thanks to the Senate and Assembly for passing it. He says; "There is nothing, in my opinion, that will so effectually aid us to bring about a good government in our city as a law that will join in one body the Police and Fire Department, and make it the dollar and cent interest of the whole body to faithfully perform their duty."

The Board of Councilmen yesterday concurred in the resolution of the other board annulling the contract with John Green for removing dead animals from the city, for which Green receives $18,000 per annum, and granting the contract to the Long Island Bone Laboratory, who agree to do the work for $15,000 per annum.

The Board of Aldermen also met, but transacted nothing but routine business.

By order of the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund, the leases of a large number of wharves, piers and slips, with franchises of the ferries running from Whitehall-street to Staten Island, Barclay-street to Hoboken, and Tenth-street to Greenpoint, were disposed of at public auction yesterday. The rentals obtained were considerably in advance of those of previous years.

The quota is filling. A hundred and sixty-two men were enlisted on the 5th. Comptroller Brennan received $50,000 from the State yesterday in money, and is promised $200,000 in bonds to-day. At the request of the Supervisors' Committee, Daniel Lord, Esq., has given an opinion that the County Bonds are entirely valid, binding and safe.

At a meeting of the Board of Representatives of the Fire Department last evening, a committee was appointed to act together with those of the Common Council, &c., in opposing the Paid Fire Department Law. The Trustees were also empowered to act as they may think best for perpetuating and protecting the Fire Department Fund.

Thirteen hundred rebel prisoners arrived at this port yesterday from Fortress Monroe.

Government bonds sold through the Stock Exchange, yesterday, to the extent of $428,000, (making $2,498,500 in three days,) including $272,000 worth of the old and new Five-Twenties, at from 107@107½; $71,000 worth of the Six ₱ cent. of 1881, at from 107½@107¾; and $75,000 worth of Ten-Forties, at 92¾@92½. The private purchases through the Commission houses ran the aggregate of the day's transactions in Government securities up to nearly a million of dollars. Orders from out-of-town buyers for Government investment were absorbing large amounts of the Six and Five ₱ cent. bonds, thus reducing materially the available supply in the market. The Etna's news gave the latest London quotations for the Five-Twenties, as 53¾@54, or 1@2 ₱ cent. higher than they were reported by the Asia. The popular demand for the new series of the 7-30 currency loan is increasing encouragingly. The aggregate subscriptions thus far this week have averaged $2,166,266 per day, as follows: Monday, $2,108,300; Tuesday, $2,075,000. Wednesday, $2,315,500. The orders for the $50 and $100 notes of this Loan have averaged 1,378 a day. The subscriptions to the Loan last week reached an average of $2,381,360 per day, and the orders for the $50 and $100 notes of the Loan an average of 1,652 a day.

The demand for the leading kinds of produce and merchandise yesterday was more active, and the tendency of prices was in favor of sellers. The freight market was depressed.

There was another buoyant stock market yesterday. Gold 3 per cent. lower. Money easy.

Last evening the gold market was active, but not very strong, closing at 150⅜.

A New British Method of Warfare.

The London Times declares its opposition to the proposed expenditure of British money in improving the forts of the British-American Provinces. It has pronounced for an easier and cheaper mode of defending the colonies, thus:

> "If we take Canada as our fighting-ground we meet the enemy under every disadvantage. His supplies of men and materials of war are at hand; ours are far away. His numbers would be overwhelming, while ours must necessarily be few. He would always be in communication with his reserve, while we should be debarred for half the year from furnishing reënforcements or lending assistance. Canada, in fact, can be best defended by attacking her assailants and forcing them to relinquish their hold. Quebec should, if necessary, be maintained by an attack on the seaports of the Union. That such a necessity would be very awful we are all agreed; that such a necessity may never arise we all pray; but it is worse than idle to contemplate the chance and to make preparation for it which would be only a delusion."

The proposal herein contained would probably invite more notice if it were at all original. It has not that merit. A crazy Ex-Governor of one of the colonies—Sir Francis Bond Head—who did his best to goad his whilom subjects into insurrection against the Queen's authority nearly thirty years ago, was in the field with this identical scheme during the Trent difficulty. He reminded the British public, in several ferocious letters, during that crisis, that it would not do to repeat the policy of the Allies in the Russian war, by which Odessa and other commercial cities were spared. He urged what he deemed the cheap system, of bombarding all the Atlantic cities of the United States, from Bangor southward, instead of sending a few regiments of Guards to the provinces. And it now appears he has made some powerful converts. We do not know how the poor Provincials will relish this military project when it comes to be unfolded for them. It can hardly be consoling, we should suppose, to learn that their territory, in the event of hostilities, is to be left to the protection of the twenty-five thousand volunteer militia men now on their Adjutant-General's rolls, however much they might be gratified by the leveling and burning of our seaport towns generally. It would be but poor solace for these people to know that the ravages of the war were not confined to their own borders, after they had gone through a Virginia experience of what war waged by United States troops, actually means. The colonists, we take it, in examining this device for their benefit will agree with us, for once, that their former crazy Governor and this malicious London organ of his, are not precisely the best friends they have at this juncture. They will get far more solid comfort, we apprehend, by studying Mr. Seward's late speech. If they really desire to live at peace with us, they may do so by observing the simplest neighborly obligations. The same lesson is all that their Imperial Governors need practice, to gain a more honorable victory than by firing shells from fifteen-inch guns into the business streets of New-York—even if that were an available mode of warfare—which we take leave to doubt exceedingly.

The Next Step.

While the military strength of the rebellion remained unbroken, we opposed, as unwise and unnecessary, any proffers of peace to the rebel leaders, or any ostentatious tender of "terms" to the rebel army. So long as the rebel government held its seat in the capital, and was backed up by the compact and powerful army of Gen. Lee, the great mass of the rebels had something at once to lean upon and to fear. They were, willingly or unwillingly, subjects of that government, and any step they might take toward breaking away from their allegiance to it would subject them to such punishment as absolute and irresponsible power, driven to desperation, of necessity inflicts. The one indispensable condition for their return to the Union was the destruction of the rebel army: until that was accomplished, all proffers of peace from us seemed to them like mockery, and all tenders of mercy were far more likely to sting and exasperate than to win over to the Union cause.

But now the case is very different. All the circumstances of it are changed. The rebel army has been substantially destroyed. It may still be formidable for local mischief,—but as a bulwark of the rebel Government, it has ceased to exist. It no longer affords shelter for the rebel authorities. Those authorities themselves are fugitives. The rebel President and Cabinet have fled before our troops. They have no longer a capital;—they have no practical power or authority. The rebel Government de facto is extinct. Our army is now in condition, practically, to release the great mass of their people from the abject allegiance in which they have hitherto been held. And, therefore, we think the time has come for doing it. Unless we are mistaken in overrating the magnitude of Grant's recent victory, and the importance of the rebel flight from Richmond, our authority is so far restored over all the rebel territory as to justify its assertion and its practical exercise. We can no longer be taunted with issuing proclamations which we have no power to enforce,—with making promises which we have no power to keep. We are no longer offering mercy to men who neither ask nor need it, and to whom, therefore, such offers are insults. We can, moreover, now justly and properly draw a line of distinction between the army and the people—between the leaders of the rebellion and those whom they have betrayed. And the sooner we draw that line, and make it the basis of our policy in dealing with this question, the sooner shall we make a beginning in that great work of social and political reconstruction which lies before us.

We should now, therefore, welcome a Proclamation from the President to the Southern people as earnestly as we should have deprecated it a month ago. If issued then it could only have reached the Southern leaders; now it can reach every town and every neighborhood in the Southern States. We do not think the time has yet come, nor are we certain that it will come hereafter, when a complete amnesty, including restoration to all the rights of citizenship, may wisely be promised to the leaders of the rebellion. But to the great mass of the Southern people, to the rank and file of the rebel army, to all except those who have made themselves directly and personally responsible for the gigantic crimes and sufferings of this war, no assurances of pardon and of protection can be too earnest or too broad. What we want of the Southern people is not simply obedience, acquiescence, submission to the power of our national government; we want their confidence in its justice, their pride in its flag, their faith and devotion to the republican principles on which it rests. We have convinced them of its strength; we want now to convince them of its beneficence. We have proved that it is useless for them to resist its authority—we want now to show them that it is for their best and highest interests to stand by and sustain it to the end of their days. The only way to bring this about is to relieve their hearts from the feelings of fear and apprehension which the penalties they have incurred may well engender, and then to open promptly and broadly for their use the channels of trade and industry by which their old prosperity may be restored.

For after all it is by deeds rather than words that we are to do the needful work of reconstruction in the Southern States, and the sooner we can lift the heavy hand of military power from Southern towns and Southern trade, the better for all concerned. The government especially should lose no time in waiving all those rigid regulations which fall with crushing weight on the helpless families of those hitherto engaged in the rebel service, while they fail to touch the offenders themselves. It is unwise as well as inhuman to wage war upon women and children, whom the armies have left behind, after these armies have been routed and destroyed. Magnanimity is always the best policy for nations and great communities, even more than for individuals. Nothing so degrades the character and dims the glory of any government as needless cruelties inflicted upon the helpless and unresisting. And while even now nothing should be done by our government inconsistent with its dignity and permanent security, the time has certainly come when it can consult other necessities than those which are purely military, and aim at other objects than those which war alone can accomplish.

The Retreat and Rout of Lee.

Late on Wednesday night, the War Department was in communication, by telegraph, with a portion of the advance of our army at Burkesville Station, (the junction of the Southside and Danville Railroads.) Sheridan, with the main body of his cavalry, at 3 P. M. of that day, was at Jetersville, on the Danville road, a station forty-three miles from Richmond. Lee, at the same date, with the remnants of his army, was at Amelia Court-house—a point thirty-six miles from Richmond, and seven miles north of Sheridan's advance. And on Wednesday evening, as appears from an intercepted letter of a rebel officer, Lee's army was drawn up in line of battle.

Gen. Grant, with Ord's army, was between Nottaway Station and Burkesville on Wednesday, when news of Sheridan's and Lee's positions reached him late in the day. The same night the Lieutenant-General reached Jetersville; two divisions of the Twenty-fourth Corps proceeded direct to Burkesville, and a portion of the Twenty-fifth encamping for the night at Black's and White's Station, fifteen miles in rear, and about seventeen miles by a direct northwest line from Sheridan's advance position.

The Second Corps at 3 P. M. on Wednesday—when Sheridan wrote his dispatch to Grant—was in sight; and the Sixth Corps, Gen. Williams telegraphs from Burkesville, would reach Jetersville the same evening.

Lee by these reports, it will be seen, was so effectually headed off before the close of Wednesday night as to justify Sheridan's report to Grant, that he felt confident, if his men properly exerted themselves, of capturing the entire army of Northern Virginia. By throwing out his cavalry in strong force toward the left on the fork between the Southside and Danville Roads, as he reports, Sheridan has got directly between the rebel army and Lynchburgh, and with the supports at his disposal on Thursday morning, and the aid of Gen. Grant's presence, there is scarcely room to doubt that his anticipations of complete success have been fully justified.

The Destruction of Rebel Armies.

It is not wonderful that at first thought there should be some incredulity about the sudden destruction which has overtaken Lee's army. That a veteran army, whose estimated strength only a few weeks since was between seventy-five and eighty-five thousand men, should be so suddenly and disastrously demolished, is sufficiently remarkable to cause astonishment.

But the thing is not absolutely without precedent, even in this war. In the very bitter report made by Gen. Hood, of the Southwestern campaign of last year, which was published recently in the Times, the rebel Commander states that on the 13th of May last, "the Army of Tennessee numbered seventy thousand (70,000) effective arms-bearing men, as the official records show, and it was at that time in excellent condition and in full hope." Gen. Hood then goes on to show how, in a brief space of time, the casualties of unsuccessful battle put hors du combat twenty-three thousand men, or one-third of the entire rebel army. At the middle of July, it numbered forty-seven thousand men; and Hood very soon had this reduced to forty thousand men. To this he subsequently added a reinforcement of about ten thousand men, with which army he commenced in November his Tennessee campaign. In December, Gen. Thomas fell upon him with great vigor at Nashville, at which decisive action Thomas reported the capture of twelve thousand prisoners, and about eight thousand were killed and wounded—twenty thousand rebels being thus put hors du combat in a single action. Then commenced the disastrous pursuit of Hood by our forces, which reached down into the State of Mississippi, when Hood finally got a respite, and found upon counting his men, that he had less than sixteen thousand all told.

Thus the great veteran rebel Army of the Southwest, seventy thousand strong in May last, and subsequently reinforced by ten thousand, lost over sixty thousand men before the close of the year, and Hood was left with only the tail of an army, which has given no sign of animation since.

Were still another illustration wanted, we have one, on a lesser scale, in Early's army, which last Summer advanced down the Shenandoah Valley, crossed the Potomac into Maryland, and threatened to capture Washington, Baltimore, and things generally. Early's force was estimated at twenty-five to thirty thousand men, and was composed of some of the best veteran troops in the rebel service. It is remembered by everybody how, after this army had found its way back to the further side of the Potomac, Sheridan fell upon it, and kept on defeating and routing it, until it had hardly a corporate existence. The fraction of it which held together, when a few weeks ago Sheridan started out on his Shenandoah campaign, was then put out of its misery.

Probably the Johnston-Hood Southwestern army, (seventy thousand in May last,) was as strong as Lee's army was on the 1st of this month; and with the history of the destruction of the former before us, we do not see why it should be difficult to credit the equally decisive destruction of the latter.

The latest official and authentic advices make it appear that Lieut.-Gen. Grant, after the disastrous rebel defeats of Saturday and Sunday, had the remnant of Lee's army on Wednesday in a position where its complete and speedy annihilation was next to certain.

The Certain Results of Continued Rebel Resistance.

The news of the deliberate, reckless and barbaric conduct of the rebel troops in burning the public buildings of Richmond, their destruction of private property, of which they have proclaimed themselves the special protectors, the reappearance of gangs of their pirates in an estuary of the Chesapeake close to Baltimore so late as Tuesday, and, above all, the apparent decision of Lee to permit the regular warfare which has been under his sole control to degenerate, as it must henceforth do, into vagabond raids by gangs of freebooters, most surely tends to keep alive feelings of vengeance which a prompt surrender would have eradicated forever. The tone of every loyal journal of influence in the country, the public exhortations of the clergy of nearly every denomination, the general tone of public opinion among us in its less formal utterances, have made it thoroughly apparent to the South and to the world at large, that the last thought in the public mind is that of enmity or revenge. But it is well that the Southern people—especially those who can still communicate with Lee and his confederates—should be apprised of the fact, that if bitter and vengeful feelings be again revived, it will be due solely to these mad efforts to prolong a warfare which must have become divested—with the dispersion of the rebel government—of every element of regularity and responsibility.

It will take no little provocation, additional to that which the loyal body of the people have already borne, to arouse a vindictive feeling. The whole community here has set its heart upon measures of clemency and pacification. But the madness of the leading insurgents, if long persisted in, may make it a duty altogether unavoidable, to bring home to them some sense of retributive power beyond their experience of the war heretofore. It will beyond doubt be necessary, as this piracy in Chesapeake Bay shows, to limit the broad interpretation hitherto applied to so-called belligerent acts. Lee, Davis and their chief confederates, who are responsible for the prolongation of the war, in its new character, cannot be ignorant of the fact, that they are treasuring up wrath against themselves for which, a few weeks hence, there will be no possible mitigation. And the punishment in store for them may ultimately fall in a measure on many of their less guilty adherents.

If this result is avoided, it will be chiefly due to the inability of Davis and Lee to prevent their armed bands from being prematurely dissolved by desertion. There is more than a probability that a general rebel desertion will furnish an early solution of the whole matter of further armed resistance to the national authority. But it will be well for those Southern communities now released from Davis' military despotism to lend their aid to the government and to the armies under the Lieutenant-General, to rid the country, at once and forever, of the presence of a vagabond soldiery which has ceased to fight for any political end, in which they have heretofore been interested.

The Last of the Leading Rebel Journal and its Editor.

The Richmond Examiner terminated its existence on Friday last. On the day preceding, its editor, John M. Daniel, died, and out of respect to his memory and in ignorance of what the future had in store for it, the following announcement was made:

> "The Examiner will not be published to-morrow. It will appear as usual on Monday."

This paragraph was in Friday's paper. On Monday our army entered Richmond, and the Examiner did not make its appearance on that day as promised. The last editorial it published was that which was its own obituary as well as that of its late editor, Mr. Daniel. The notice says:

> "Mr. Daniel was the eldest son of Dr. John Moncure Daniel, of Stafford, (nephew of Mr. Justice Daniel, of the United States Supreme Court,) and from his frequent allusions to his father, to his opinions, his taste, and the course of reading he recommended to his son, it is evident that Dr. Daniel must have been a man of very superior acquirements and character. From this parent Mr. Daniel derived most of his early instruction; and as he afterward became a very close student, and also availed himself to the very uttermost of his opportunities during an eight years' residence in Italy, it is not surprising that he became, as he certainly was, one of the most accomplished scholars on this continent. It will probably excite no jealousy amongst the confraternity of Confederate journalists to affirm that John M. Daniel was the pride and ornament of the Southern press. He has fallen in his harness, and at a gloomy moment in the gallant struggle of his country. Yet if he had lived but few weeks longer, it is probable his eyes would have been gladdened by brighter days. The very morning of his death agony dawned upon a great Confederate victory; the turning point in our fortunes has perhaps been reached; and if it be decreed that this Confederacy is to be free and potent, honored amongst the nations of the world, there is no human agency to which we shall owe that result more than that of John Moncure Daniel."

Mr. Daniel lived long enough to see how fatally true was every warning Mr. Stephens addressed to the Southern people, before he had thrown off his allegiance to the laws and Government of his country. It is impossible not to think with regret of the worse than waste of unquestioned talent which marked the labors of Mr. Daniels' life since the opening of the war. Like perverts generally, when he had once cast his fortunes with the conspiracy against the nation's life, he outdid the most virulent of the traitorous crew in his abuse of the national Government and the political institutions under which he had risen to an honorable fame. His death, which is noted as an event synchronous with the overthrow of the Richmond soi-disant Government, points a lesson which will be long remembered by the political student, both North and South. And much of the good he aimed at and achieved in his better days will doubtless be remembered when the terrible errors of his later years are forgotten.

Volunteers for the War.—The work of recruiting for the army goes on well. Indeed there is no reason why it should not. According to all appearances the war is nearly over. Its heaviest and bloodiest battles have been already fought. Those who enlist now may reasonably count on easy service and little danger. Bounties, before very long, will inevitably fall, and the only way to secure those now promised is to enlist at once. The government is wise in filling up the quota. It is well to give the rebels to understand that we are prepared for any contingency; we shall keep our ranks full, whether we have any work for them or not.

A very good suggestion is made by the various Ward Associations in regard to filling their quotas. Our citizens are naturally and justly anxious to avoid a draft. They can do it if they have time, and the authorities announce that, so long as the Provost-Marshals are kept busy in mustering in volunteers and substitutes, there will be no draft. It is important, therefore, that they should muster in all that offer; and it is suggested that the County Committee, whose headquarters are in the Park, should send to the wards in which they reside all the volunteers who are presented, or else suspend their own operations altogether. Whatever the committee does, counts not at all in relieving the city from the draft, as it does not keep the Provost-Marshals busy. We trust this suggestion will receive the favorable consideration of the Board of Supervisors. Everything just now is going on well. The officers in the several districts are actively engaged, and recruits are rapidly coming in.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

Washington, Thursday, April 6.

A PEACE COMMISSIONER FROM NORTH CAROLINA.

A letter of March 29, from a responsible source at Newbern, N. C., contains the following paragraph:

> "John A. Stanley, of North Carolina, passed through here yesterday, en route North for Washington, as commissioner to negotiate for peace with the President, on behalf of a large Union organization in his State. Gen. Palmer gave him the necessary papers, and allowed him to go through on Government transports."

If Mr. Stanley has arrived in Washington, on this or any other business, the fact is not known. He would find on his arrival at Fortress Monroe, however, that the President was at the front, and so has doubtless stopped at Hampton Roads.

They report that the rebel Maj.-Gen. Anderson was killed in front of Petersburgh on Saturday.

The Election in Connecticut.

Complete returns from the Connecticut election give Buckingham 11,066 majority, and show that the total vote of the State is about the same as last year. The State Senate is unanimously Union as at first supposed, and in the House there will be 161 Republicans and 73 Democrats. There is no danger but that the Constitutional Amendment will be ratified by the necessary two-thirds vote. The following is the vote of the State by counties, compared with the vote of last year:

Counties.	1865. Buckingham.	1865. Seymour.	1864. Buckingham.	1864. O. S. Seymour

City Railroad Management.—In the Fourth-avenue cars is posted a list of instructions for conductors. One item is, that they are to "stand constantly on the rear platform, with their backs to the car, looking out for passengers." This may all be very well for the company, but how about the passengers already secured? The company have placed the cord which rings the bell out of the reach of the passengers, and it is quite impossible to catch the conductor's eye while he is obeying the orders of the company. Half the time women and others are carried two or three blocks beyond their destination, because they can't reach the bell-pull, and the conductor is "standing on the rear platform with his back to the car."

The chief end and aim of these city railroads is evidently to get passengers (as many as possible) into the cars and collect their fare. What is to become of them afterward—whether they are to perish by suffocation or old age—when and how they are to get out, whether they are to be crushed in forcing a passage or be landed half a mile from where they wish to get out—all these are matters with which the companies have nothing to do.

Signor Ettore Barili's Concert.—The annual complimentary concert of this popular baritone and instructor will take place at Irving Hall this evening, on which occasion he will be assisted by his own and the pupils of his brother Antonio, Barili's Philharmonic Society, Signor Mongiardini, tenor, and Mr. Alfred H. Pease, pianist. Master Alfred Barili, a youthful pianist of ten years of age, will make his début.

Miss Emma Hardinge will deliver an entirely new lecture at Cooper Institute this evening. "The Day of Reconstruction" is the subject of the lecture, one certainly full of interest to everybody.

THE UNITARIAN CONVENTION.

We note briefly the principal points of the Wednesday's business proceedings of this body, crowded out by yesterday's press of war news, &c.:

A. A. Low, Esq., after some little skirmishing on points of order, introduced the following resolutions, which he proposed as a Unitarian creed or basis of doctrine:

Whereas, This convention has been called, in accordance with a vote of the American Unitarian Association, passed at a special meeting held in Boston on the 6th and 7th of December, 1864, and an invitation has been extended to all the so-called Unitarian Chuches in the land, to be present by their respective pastors, and by duly elected lay delegates; the declared objects of the convention being to stimulate the zeal of the denomination to missionary efforts; to build up schools and colleges founded for the encouragement and support of a sound religious faith; to aid the publication of religious newspapers, tracts and magazines; and, generally, by all the various instrumentalities suited to this end, to extend the growth and enlarge the influence of the denomination; and

Whereas, Differences of opinion are known to exist, and widely different doctrinal views—in the judgment of some, on themes of vital import—are set forth in the various churches thus called together; and

Whereas, Associate and efficient action can only be expected of those who agree in certain leading doctrinal statements or positions;

Resolved, That for the good understanding of all who take part in this convention, (and any that may succeed it,) and alike of all who are expected to support and carry out such measures as it may recommend, it is a primary duty to announce the doctrinal views it aims to cherish and promulgate.

Resolved, That without intending any intolerance of individual opinion, it is the right and the duty of this convention to claim of all who take part in its proceedings an assent to the fundamental doctrines hitherto held by the Unitarian Body—by reason of which it has acquired its standing in the Christian world, and asserts its lineage in the Christian Church; and to this end this convention declares as essentially belonging to the Unitarian faith:

1. Belief in the Holy Scriptures as containing a revelation from God to man, and, as deduced therefrom,
2. Belief in one God, the Father.
3. Belief in one Lord Jesus Christ, our Saviour; the Son of God and His especially appointed Messenger and Representative to our race, gifted with supernatural power, "approved of God by miracles and signs and wonders which God did by him," and, thus, by Divine authority, commanding the devout and reverential faith of all who claim the Christian name.
4. Belief in the Holy Ghost, the Comforter.
5. Belief in the forgiveness of sins, the resurrection from the dead, and life everlasting.

These resolutions were offered as amendments to some others of a business character, and on the same subject, Dr. Bellows afterward introduced the following on behalf of the Committee on Business: That any doctrinal views which might be brought forward in the convention, or be approved by a majority, should not be obligatory on those who might choose to dissent from them, and that the largest exercise and development of a liberal faith, on the basis of Christianity, should mark the action and deliberation of the committee. The resolutions then recommended the appointment of a committee to whom all doctrinal points should be referred.

Dr. Bellows said the resolutions were not intended to prevent the introduction of any subject the members might desire to introduce. Their object was to secure order. Unless they could trust the committee they created, the business of the convention was at an end. They should preserve the conservative path they had chosen, and keep in the mid-channel, and not go in the by-ways, however clear they might seem, as they were full of peril.

The resolution was adopted.

During the session Rev. Dr. Stebbins, of Boston, President of the American Unitarian Association, read the annual report. The whole amount collected during thirty-nine years has been only $315 000. The society issuing many publications to the army, which are distributed gratuitously. More than $80,000 have been subscribed for the purpose of distributing reading matter among the soldiers.

Through the aid of Thomas D. Elliott, the Church now has its own commission, and can send its agents where any other organization can send theirs. Two ministers are now ready to go to Savannah and Charleston, and reoccupy the churches which have been for a long time without Unitarian pastors.

Rev. Mr. Hibbard, of Detroit, read the report of the Western Unitarian Conference, which began its sessions in 1862.

Rev. Mr. Palfrey read the report of the Maine Unitarian Conference.

Judge Bellows, of Concord, made the report of the New-Hampshire Unitarian Conference. He said the condition of the Church in New-Hampshire was not flourishing. There were but fifteen churches in that State, thirteen of which are represented in the convention.

Rev. Dr. Farley, of Brooklyn, made the report of the Unitarian Association, which embraced a brief sketch of the New-York Christian Inquirer. The paper began its circulation with eight hundred subscribers, and at the present time had about twenty-six hundred.

EVENING SESSION.

At the evening session, the principal features of the proceedings were a resolution, which was adopted, in favor of increased missionary efforts, and a discussion upon Antioch College, the purchase and endowment of which as a school of Unitarian clergymen was strongly urged by Rev. Mr. Fay, one of the trustees; Rev. E. E. Hale and others. Mr. Hale said that the college needed $100,000; that $40,000 might be considered already promised, and if the whole could be obtained, the college would be opened next Autumn.

THURSDAY'S SESSION.

The resolution offered by Mr. Hale last evening, providing for the endowment of Antioch College by a fund of $100,000, and the raising of twice that sum as soon as possible, was adopted.

Rev. Dr. Bellows, Chairman of the committee of twelve to whom was referred all doctrinal points, reported a constitution:

The following are the preamble and first article:

PREAMBLE.

Whereas, The great opportunities and demands for Christian labor and consecration at this time increase our sense of the obligation of all disciples of the Lord Jesus Christ to prove their faith by self-denial and by the devotion of their lives and possessions in the service of God and the building up of the kingdom of his Son;

FIRST ARTICLE.

Therefore, The Christian churches of the Unitarian faith here assembled unite themselves in a common body to be known as the National Conference of Unitarian Churches, to the end of reorganizing and stimulating the denomination with which they are connected to the largest exertions in the cause of Christian faith and work.

After some discussion the first article of the constitution was taken up.

Mr. Burleigh, of Massachusetts, said he looked for more than was contained in the first article. The liberal Christians did not recognize Christ in the sense generally accepted.

Dr. Clarke, of Boston, proposed that the words "and independent" be added after "Unitarian," in the first article.

Dr. Bellows said the present convention was prepared to unite in nothing, in the opinion of the committee, except what had been presented. He said it had been proposed to let in those who believed too much, and those who did not believe enough, and between the two the ship might be balanced, but it was not believed the present was the proper time to discuss the question.

Mr. Elliot moved that the question lay on the table. Adopted.

Mr. Elliot then moved that speakers be limited to five minutes, when the first motion was again taken up.

Rev. Mr. Town said he objected to the word Unitarian standing alone. Within the convention were all shades of liberal Christians, waiting to see whether the doors were to be thrown open and they admitted. He believed Jesus Christ was the servant Christ, and not the Lord Christ. During every session of the convention, a talented Universalist had been sitting at his side, who had been waiting to see if the doors were thrown open to him.

Rev. Mr. Ames, of Albany, said the word "Unitarian" had come to represent "Faith, Hope and Charity." He was in favor of the organization of the Unitarian Church, and intended to call them Unitarians. The opening of the door to all free-thinkers would bring upon the Church the scourge of the Lord.

Rev. John C. Park moved an amendment, by inserting the word "some Christian," instead of "Unitarian."

Mr. Harlow, of Bedford; Mr. Turner, of Boston; Dr. Osgood, of this city; Mr. Livermore, of Cambridge; Rev. Mr. Buckingham, of Troy, and Mr. Mills, of Brooklyn, took part in the discussion.

Mr. Eliot, of New-Bedford, moved the previous question.

The amendment of Mr. Park was then lost, and the first article was adopted.

The remaining articles were then taken up and adopted separately, as follows:

Article 2.—This National Conference shall be composed of such delegates elected annually, not to exceed three from any church, including its minister, who shall officially be one, as any of our churches may accredit to it by a certificate of their appointment.

Art. 3.—The American Unitarian Association, the Western Conference, and such other theological, academic or humane organizations in our body as the Conference may see fit to invite, shall be entitled to representation by no more than three delegates each.

Art. 4.—The Conference shall meet annually at such time as it may designate at its successive annual sessions.

Art. 5.—The officers shall consist of a President, six Vice-Presidents, three Secretaries—an honorary, a recording and corresponding Secretary—and a council of ten—half ministers and half laymen—who shall be elected at each meeting, to hold their office for one year and until their successors are appointed.

Art. 6.—The council of ten shall have charge, during the intervals of the annual sessions, of all business having reference to the interests of the Conference, and entrusted it by that body, which is hereby declared a purely advisory one.

Art. 7. The National Conference, until further advised by its experience, adopts the existing organizations of the Unitarian body as the instruments of its power, and confines itself to the recommending to them such undertakings and methods as it judges to be in the heart of the Unitarian denomination.

Art. 8. The foregoing constitution may be amended at any regular meeting of the conference, by a vote of not less than two-thirds of the delegates accredited thereto.

Rev. Mr. Ames, of Albany, then offered a resolution declaring that nothing in the foregoing constitution should prohibit any church which chooses to do so, to coöperate with Unitarians in the Christian work.

Dr. Bellows said that after long discussion it had been resolved to call the organization Unitarian, and the resolution gave large license to the church. He was in favor of a broad church movement, but hoped the question would come up at a future time.

Dr. Hanes, of Brooklyn, favored the resolution, but amended it by inserting the word "Christian" before church.

The amendment was adopted.

Mr. Park further amended the resolution by adding "All who may make known their wishes by letter to the President of the Convention."

Four or five amendments were attached to the resolution, when it was lost.

The preamble was then taken up for consideration, when it was moved to lay the preamble on the table. The motion was lost.

A brief discussion followed, when the preamble was adopted.

The chairman appointed the following Committee on Antioch College:

Rev. Edward E. Hale, of Boston; Artemas Carter, of Chicago; Rev. Eli Fay, of Andover, Mass.; John E. Williams, of New-York; Ichabod Goodwin, of Portsmouth; Chas. D. Head, of Brookline, Mass.; George C. Richardson, of Cambridgeport; Geo. N. Eaton, of Baltimore; George F. Hoar, of Worcester, Mass.; George Walker, of Springfield; E. Carlton Sprague, of Buffalo; John Quincy Adams, of Quincy, Mass.

Mr. Hall then moved that the thanks of the convention be voted to Rev. James Freeman Clark, of Boston, for his able sermon on Tuesday evening, and a copy requested for publication.

The resolution was adopted, and the convention took a recess.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

At the afternoon session a series of by-laws was presented for the government of the church.

One of the by-laws provided that the parishes should defray the expenses of delegates to the annual convention. It was suggested by Dr. Bellows, that unless provision was made by the parishes for the support of their delegates, it would be difficult to find cities in which the conference could be held. An interesting discussion ensued, when the resolution was adopted, and the by-laws adopted as a whole.

Mr. Hale moved that a committee of five be appointed to nominate officers of the convention for the ensuing year. Adopted. Mr. Ames, of Albany, moved that all persons of liberal Christian faith be invited to coöperate with the Unitarian Church.

The motion was withdrawn, and a resolution offered by Rev. Mr. Mayo, of Cincinnati, that a committee, consisting of William C. Bryant, Rev. Mr. Hayward, of Kentucky, and John G. Palfrey, of Massachusetts, be appointed to draft patriotic resolutions to report to the convention.

The consideration of resolutions of Mr. Ames was then resumed, and occupied the remainder of the afternoon session. They were finally adopted, and the convention adjourned.

Social Gathering of the Unitarian Convention.

The Unitarian Convention held a social gathering at the Academy of Music last evening. Besides the 600 delegates, nearly 300 guests were present. The parquet of the Academy was floored over and added to the stage, and here a number of bountifully supplied tables were spread. The boxes and dress tier were filled with spectators, a large number of whom were ladies. An excellent band played a number of well-selected airs during the evening.

At the centre-table were seated Mr. Peter Cooper, Gov. Andrew, Rev. Mr. Dewey, Mr. Palfrey, Elliot C. Cowdin, Horace Greeley, Dr. Osgood, Rev. Mr. Hale, Wm. C. Bryant, and other distinguished gentlemen.

After a brief address by Mr. Peter Cooper, and a prayer by Rev. Dr. Dewey, the collation was partaken of, and Mr. Cowden then, at the request of Mr. Cooper, took the chair.

Mr. Cowdin delivered a brief but eloquent address, in which he extended a cordial welcome to the members of the convention on behalf of the Committee of Arrangements.

His Excellency Gov. Andrew was the next speaker. After referring to the arduous labors of the convention, and the benefit which might be expected to result from its labors, he said that it behooved the present generation to increase their ministry and the number of their educational institutions. Society had been so shaken that it would require a number of teachers to set it right—it would in fact require a great deal of bracing. We are now, he said, entering upon a new era, and now, as in the past, our ministry had much work to perform. Speaking of the war, he said he was one of those who saw more peril in the statesmanship following the war, than in the military operations preceding its close. We might now say that we are again one country and people, and our military operations no longer doubtful, but we had much to fear in regard to future statesmanship. In conclusion the speaker paid an eloquent tribute to the valor of the Union army, whose perils and sufferings will, he said, form the theme of undying verse.

The Rev. Dr. Garnett, of Boston, Dr. Dewey, Wm. C. Bryant, Rev. Wm. G. Elliott, Hon. J. S. Palfrey, A. A. Low, Dr. Osgood, Dr. Channing, Dr. Hale and others, spoke during the evening, and the delegates and guests did not separate until quite a late hour.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

THE MERCANTILE LIBRARY ASSOCIATION.

A circular issued by this association states that the effort that has been making of late to free the library building from all incumbrance, has been nearly realized. Of the $62,000 originally required, there remains but $15,000, which it is hoped will be obtained during the present month, so that at the anniversary of the association, to be held in May, this important work may be announced as entirely accomplished. Within a year the membership of this institution has increased from about 4,500 to over 6,500, which, with the establishment of an up-town branch, near Madison-square, and the maintenance of the down-town office, near the Post-office, has probably doubled the usefulness of the library to the reading community.

Hayti—Colored Freemasons Raising Money to Relieve Sufferers from the Fire.—In view of the suffering caused by the late disastrous fire in the city of Port-au-Prince, Hayti, whereby, on the night of the 28th ult., four hundred houses in the heart of the city were consumed, property to the amount of four millions of Spanish dollars destroyed, and hundreds of the inhabitants rendered entirely destitute, the Most Worshipful United Grand Lodge, F. A. M., of the State of New-York, having resolved to raise a subscription in aid of the sufferers, has appointed a committee to solicit contributions from the members of the craft under its jurisdiction, and from the public generally. The sums received will be publicly acknowledged, and the amount of the subscription, when completed, will be delivered to the representative of the Haytien Government at Washington, to be transmitted to the President of Hayti for distribution among the sufferers. Subscriptions may be sent to Mr. Geo. Lawrence, Jr., at the office of the Haytien Bureau of Emigration, No. 55 Liberty-street, New-York.

New-York State Soldiers' Depot.—The refugee bands from South Carolina, composed of the bands of the First Artillery and First Infantry, now stopping at the depot, gave a fine instrumental entertainment on Wednesday night to a large audience of soldiers and citizens, who were attracted by the announcement made at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. The band played, Col. Colyer, the Superintendent, made a stirring speech, giving the band a hearty welcome to the hearts and homes of the free men of the North, and said it was only a slight evidence of the joy with which the whole South will be welcomed back to Union and peace. The music was also varied by vocal grand choruses by the whole audience, "Rally Round the Flag," "Star Spangled Banner," and others. Addresses were also made by Rev. W. Allen, of Northborough, Massachusetts, Rev. W. Ayer, Wm. Olands Bourne, editor of the Soldier's Friend, Mr. Tibbal and Capt. A. L. Waller, Co. I, Seventy-eighth Ohio. The whole affair was spirited, patriotic, and well-timed, and closed with rousing cheers for the Union and Victory.

Aid for the United States Christian Commission.—At the close of business hours at the Produce Exchange on Wednesday, a meeting was organized, of which Mr. Cragin was elected chairman and Mr. R. P. Getty Secretary, for the purpose of obtaining funds in aid of the United States Christian Commission. Mr. George M. Stewart, President of the United States Christian Commission, addressed the members of the Produce Exchange, explaining that the objects of the commission are to afford relief to sick and wounded soldiers; and that at the present time its treasury is so low that assistance is absolutely necessary to enable the commission to continue its efforts. A collection was then taken up, and the following gentlemen were appointed a committee to solicit further subscriptions: J. P. Wallace, E. H. Tompkins, Ed. Martin, Dwight Johnson, Asa Stevens, F. P. Sage, A. E. Masters, H. Slocum, J. W. Underhill, E. A. Kent, J. M. Fiske, and Hy. M. Smith.

The Loyal Publication Society.—We are glad to see that this society is commencing another year of operations with unabated energy. Last year it issued thirty-four works of an eminently practical and patriotic character. Among the list of authors are influential Germans, Americans, Irishmen and Englishmen. Its works on reconstruction and secession are most important at the present time. The society is not only useful at home, but it has done good service in Europe among journalists and legislators. Those who have not seen the society's publications we advise to call at No. 863 Broadway, and make a valuable addition to their libraries.

Board of Education.—The board met on Wednesday evening, and President McLean held the chair. Messrs. McSpedon, Adams, Lieber and Hayes were made a committee to frame resolutions expressive of the thanks of the board for the recent victories. A committee reported that the Greenwich-avenue School, No. 41, was unfit for school purposes, and it was therefore resolved that this school edifice should be examined at greater length. A resolution was introduced to abolish the presentation of cards of merit oftener than once in six months, and this having passed, the board adjourned.

For Fort Sumter—The Arago.—We have been requested to give notice that the steamer Arago, which has been ordered to take a party to Charleston, to be present at the raising of the old flag over Fort Sumter, will not sail on Friday, as was expected, but will leave punctually at 12 M. on Saturday. Those who have tickets of invitation to go in the Arago, are requested to call at the office of Gen. Van Vliet, No. 17 State-street, to-day, (Friday,) and register their names.

Threatening to Shoot.—James Courtney was arrested by Officer Price, of the Fourth Ward, for threatening to shoot Matilda Schaening, of No. 122 Delancey-street. The complainant alleged that the prisoner met her in Chatham-street, and there assaulted her, threatening to shoot her. Courtney's friends appeared at the Tombs in large numbers, and made every effort to liberate him, but Justice Hogan thought it proper to hold the prisoner.

Personal.—Samuel D. Burchard, the efficient Superintendent of the Forage Department under Col. S. L. Brown, has recently received the promotion of Captain and Assistant Quartermaster, and has been assigned to duty in this city in place of Capt. E. D. Chapman, who has been relieved.

Five Points Home of Industry.—The "Monthly Record" for April is before us. We should be glad to give the totals of donations, &c., but the record man ought to do his own summing, both of money and (by estimate) of goods received.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Funeral of the Firemen killed at the Furman-street Conflagration.—The flags of all the public buildings in the city, and some private residences, were displayed at half-mast yesterday, out of respect to the memory of the disaster in Furman-street. The engine-houses were draped in mourning. Four bodies were conveyed to their last resting places—those of Alexander S. Benson, of Niagara Hose, No. 8, and Louis C. Gardiner, of Franklin Hose, No. 5, in the morning; and those of Casper R. Cammeyer, of Mechanics Hose, No. 2, and Eugene P. Baker, of Water Witch Hose, No. 8, in the afternoon. The remains of Benson were taken from his parents' residence, No. 271 Jay-street, to the Church of St. Charles Boromeo, in Sidney-place, where a solemn requiem high mass was offered for the repose of his soul. The body was then carried to the Cemetery of the Holy Cross for interment. The body of Gardiner was taken from his brother's residence, Hon. Thos. A. Gardiner, No. 167 Johnson-street, to the Church of the Assumption, corner of York and Jay streets, where a solemn requiem high mass was also offered, and, after the services, was conveyed to the family vault in St. Patrick's Cathedral, New-York City. The funeral services of the late Mr. Cammeyer were held at his father's house, No. 27 Stanton-street, and those of Mr. Baker at his parents' residence, No. 286 Pearl-street. Both bodies were conveyed to Greenwood Cemetery, accompanied by delegations from every fire company in the city. The processions met on Court-street, opposite City Hall, and the Hall bell tolled solemnly as they marched along to the grave. The same respect was shown to the deceased whose funerals took place in the morning. The sight was a most affecting one as the long line of mourners passed quietly through the streets. The funeral of the late Joseph H. Brown, the last of the victims thus far, will take place to-day.

Panic Among Children in a Public School.—Yesterday morning, about 10 o'clock, a panic occurred among the children of Public School No. 14, corner of Concord and Navy streets, caused by an alarm of fire. It appears a kindling-wood company in the immediate neighborhood, blew off the steam from one of their boilers preparatory to an inspection. The great noise it occasioned frightened the children, and one or more cried out that the house was on fire. This set the whole in commotion, and notwithstanding the exertions of the teacher—Mrs. Harriett M. Coffin—who stationed herself at the door, they rushed out, pushed her down and trampled over her in wild affright. In going down the stairs, one little girl, named Anna Sandebeck, aged 12 years, fell, and others tumbling over her, she was severely injured. Her collar-bone was fractured, and she was also badly bruised about the body. The excitement was allayed after a little time, and the scholars permitted to go home. Lessons were again resumed in the afternoon. Some years since No. 14 School-house was burned down, and several children were killed, and others injured, in their efforts to escape. The remembrance of this tragedy may have had an effect on this occasion. The injured girl was conveyed to her parents' residence, No. 15 Prince-street, by Officer De Camp, of the Forty-first Precinct Police.

The Draft in Brooklyn.—The draft in the Third District will be resumed on Saturday (to-morrow,) at 10 o'clock precisely, when the names of those enrolled in the Second Ward will be put into the wheel. The Fifteenth Ward will next be taken up, perhaps on Monday.

Brooklyn City Court, Thursday, April 6.—Nos. 45, 70, 73, 27.

Perry's Moth and Freckle Lotion.

Chloasma, or Mothpatch, (also called Liverspot,) and Lentigo or Freckles, are often very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, for the discolored spots show more plainly on the face of a blonde than of a brunette; but they greatly mar the beauty of either; and any preparation that will effectually remove them WITHOUT INJURING THE TEXTURE OR COLOR OF THE SKIN, is certainly a desideratum. Dr. B. C. PERRY, who has made diseases of the skin a specialty, has discovered a remedy for these discolorations, which is at once prompt, infallible and harmless.

A SOUND INVESTMENT.
E. C. STEDMAN & CO.,
No. 57 Exchange-place, invite the attention of their customers and the public to the advertisement, elsewhere published, of

THE SUGAR CREEK PETROLEUM COMPANY.

A limited portion of this really valuable stock is open to subscription at our office. We desire to state that:

1. The capital of this company is not "watered," and does not equal in amount the value of the property on which it is based.

2. Ten wells are going down in the choicest Sugar Creek heavy oil district. The capital stock is so small that even fifteen barrels of oil per diem will pay handsome monthly dividends, with gold at par.

3. The projectors of this company have formed it on an honest basis, and look for their profit to a rise in the market value of the stock.

4. Only a few thousand shares will be sold.

This is the only company for which we have ever opened subscription books and confidently recommended the stock to our customers; and we do so for the reasons above-named. Maps and further information can be obtained by calling on or addressing

The property of this company consists of the fee simple of the valuable Steadwell or FULLER FARM, near the junction of Wolf Run and Sugar Creek, Jackson Township, Venango County, Penn.

It embraces 122 acres of heavy-oil boring territory in the richest portion of the now famous Sugar Creek Valley. Ten wells are going down. There is room for five hundred more. The Superintendent is constantly applied to for leases, but will sink other wells solely for the company's account and retain the entire oil product.

With this intent the shares constituting the WORKING CAPITAL are now open to subscription for a short time only. The trustees will refrain from lengthy advertisement of the prospects of the SUGAR CREEK PETROLEUM COMPANY, and content themselves with pointing to the features which distinguish it from many enterprises of the day.

The stock is not "watered." The projectors depend for their profits solely on a rise in its market price. But a few thousand shares will be sold, and these on the only honest basis, viz., at their par value. The company's property is worth more than the entire capital stock. The latter is so small, indeed, that even a ten-barrel well will pay for regular monthly dividends. The Sugar Creek Wells are but half as expensive, and the oil is twice as valuable as the wells and oil either of Oil Creek or Cherry Run.

Prospectuses and maps can be obtained and subscriptions effected by application to CHARLES G. JUDSON, No. 84 Chambers-st.; CHARLES GOULD, No. 58 Wall-st.; J. L. EVERITT, Broadway Bank, or to either of the trustees.

Subscription books, for the sale of the stock reserved as working capital, are opened for a limited period at the office of E. C. STEDMAN & CO.,

CHICKERING & SONS
MANUFACTURERS OF GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT PIANO-FORTES, No. 652 BROADWAY.—The superiority of these instruments has of late been amply demonstrated by the voluntary testimony of the foremost artists of the day, who claim for them excellencies of tone and workmanship hitherto unobtained by any other makers.

Mr. GOTTSCHALK's constant use of the NEW SCALE CHICKERING GRAND PIANO-FORTES has severely tested their musical qualities, and resulted in establishing the justice of the very flattering estimation in which they are held.

Messrs. CHICKERING & SONS are Sole Agents for the celebrated Alexandre Organs for the United States.

STEINWAY & SON
GOLD MEDAL GRAND AND SQUARE PIANOS are now considered the best in Europe as well as this country, having received the first Prize Medal at the World's Exhibition in London, 1862.

The principal reason why the Steinway Pianos are superior to all others is, that the firm is composed of five practical piano forte makers, (father and four sons,) who invent all their own improvements, and under whose personal supervision every part of the instrument is manufactured. Warerooms Nos. 71 and 73 East 14th-st., between Union-square and Irving-place, New-York.

THE WEBER PIANO-FORTE
is admitted the best Piano-forte made, because the maker, besides being a practical mechanic of long experience, is also a thorough musician, thus combining advantages possessed by no other manufacturer in the United States. Such is the testimony of S. B. Mills, Robert Heller, Geo. F. Bristow, Wm. Mason, C. Jerome Hopkins, Charles Fradel, Max Maretzek, Carl Anschutz, John Zundel, Maurice Strakosch, Giovani Sconcia, Edward and Henry Mollenhauer, Louis Schreiber, Emil and Fred Brandeis, W. B. State Money in Hand at Last—Daniel Lord on Validity of County Bonds—Progress of Recruiting.

The reports more than once made in both morning and evening papers, that money from the State has been furnished to Mr. BLUNT, are erroneous. Comptroller BRENNAN, yesterday, received the first of the amount to be refunded by the State to the County to replace county expenditures for bounties, being $50,000 in cash. It is promised that an additional sum of $200,000 in State bonds shall be lodged with him to-day, but it had not been so lodged yesterday. These bonds must of course be sold in order to afford money for recruiting; and measures are already taken by Comptroller BRENNAN, which have secured the sale of a portion of them. The whole amount thus received is a quarter of a million; but the amount actually paid out by the county for recruits, and which is due from the State under the same rule, is toward three million dollars.

In order to meet the objections raised by some capitalists about the validity of county bonds, the following opinion has been obtained by the Supervisors' committee from that sound adviser DANIEL LORD, Esq. It will be seen that this experienced lawyer says the bonds are perfectly good:

HEADQUARTERS COUNTY COMMITTEE ON VOLUNTEERING, City Hall Park, Broadway, corner of Chambers-street, NEW-YORK, April 6, 1865.

FOR THE COUNTY VOLUNTEER COMMITTEE OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF NEW-YORK.

Opinion.—The act of the Legislature, chapter 29, passed Feb. 10, 1865, in section seventh expressly affirmed the ordinance of the Board of Supervisors of Jan. 10, 1865, with two other ordinances to provide for the procurement of volunteers, &c., &c. No condition is imposed of submitting any question to the people, which is effectually dispensed with by the passing of the act.

There is no doubt of the validity of the act under the constitution, the power of taxing not being restricted. (Brewster vs. City of Buffalo, 1 N. Y. Rep., 116.)

The county bonds issued under this ordinance are therefore valid obligations on the county for the principal and interest, and when issued in due form are negotiable and binding in favor of takers in good faith. (Gilpcke vs. City of Dubuque, 1 Wallace Rep. S. C. N. S. 220.)

DANIEL LORD.

APRIL 6, 1865.

The whole number of recruits enlisted in the city on Wednesday, the 5th, was one hundred and sixty-two, which, however, includes two days' work in the Fourth District. Of this total, one hundred and ten were volunteers and fifty-two substitutes. By districts, these enlistments were made thus: In the Fourth, 58; Fifth, 25; Sixth, 28; Seventh, 15; Eighth, 26; Ninth, 10.

To Drafted Men—Eighteenth Ward.

Rooms have been opened at the junction of Broadway, Fifth-avenue and Twenty-third-street, entrance in Fifth-avenue, and a responsible person will be present there from 9 till 5 o'clock, to give information to drafted men, and provide substitutes. $50 hand-money is given by the committee to any one bringing a man. The greatest difficulty experienced thus far is in getting the men drafted to look after their own interests. They seem to think that the committee which has been appointed will see them freed from the draft; but this they can not and will do unless the individuals interested go to headquarters and attend to procuring their own substitutes.

BILLIARDS.

Goldthwait and Wicks—A Remarkable Match.

About three hundred persons, most of them amateurs, last night assembled at GOLDTHWAIT & CAMILL's little arena, over their rooms on the Sixth-avenue, to witness the long-promised contest between Messrs. GOLDTHWAIT and WICKS. It proved truly a remarkable game, and, no doubt, caused considerable money to change hands. For years Mr. WICKS has played like games with all the most celebrated professionals in the country, and has usually come out ahead. It will be remembered that he made an easy victim of MELVIN FOSTER, in the same room a few weeks since.

The match was for $200—the best of fifteen games of 100 points each, caroms, with 2¾ inch balls, on a Phelan & Collendar four-pocket table. GOLDTHWAIT was in most excellent play, and astonished even his most sanguine friends; he was an easy winner, being successful in eight of the nine games played—WICKS winning the seventh game only. The following is

THE SUMMARY.

First Game—Total, Goldthwait, 102; Wicks, 86. Highest run, Goldthwait, 53; Wicks, 37. Time—19 minutes.

Second Game—Total, Goldthwait, 102; Wicks, 2. Highest run, Goldthwait, 94; Wicks, 2. Time—11 minutes.

Third Game—Total, Goldthwait, 108; Wicks, 34. Highest run, Goldthwait, 73; Wicks, 28. Time—12 minutes.

Fourth Game—Total, Goldthwait, 157; Wicks, 79. Highest runs, Goldthwait, 50; Wicks, 15. Time—26 minutes.

Fifth Game—Total, Goldthwait, 125, Wicks, 23. Highest runs, Goldthwait, 100; Wicks, 21. Time—8 minutes.

Sixth Game—Total, Goldthwait, 102; Wicks, 0. Highest run, 102. Time—5 minutes.

Seventh Game—Total, Goldthwait, 87; Wicks, 102. Highest runs, Goldthwait, 32; Wicks, 25. Time—19 minutes.

Eighth Game—Total, Goldthwait, 145; Wicks, 47. Highest runs, Goldthwait, 51; Wicks, 20. Time—16 minutes.

Ninth Game—Goldthwait, 132; Wicks, 11. Highest runs, Goldthwait, 79; Wicks, 5. Time—8 minutes.

GRAND SCORE.

Whole number of points, Goldthwait, 1,060; Wicks, 384. Innings, Goldthwait, 52; Wicks, 51. Average, Goldthwait, 20-20; Wicks, 7-27. Total time, 2 hours 5 minutes; shortest, 5 minutes; longest, 26 minutes. Referee, M. Phelan.

It will be observed that Goldthwait ran the fifth game out in a single inning. His average is exceedingly large, as it must be remembered nearly all the games were run out, with the balls in fine position. Mr. Wicks played with great determination, but the fates were against him.

Among the audience was the celebrated French professor, M. Carme, Messrs. Michael and George E. Phelan, Freeman, and others.

The Celebration of our Victories.

The Joint Committee of the Common Council, appointed to make arrangements for celebrating our recent victories, met at 3 P. M. to-day. Councilman GREEN was elected Chairman. A communication was read from Mr. WM. E. DODGE, Chairman of the Committee of Citizens, stating that they would be pleased to cooperate with the committee in any way, and that he would call the committee of which he is chairman together, and ascertain their views on the subject.

On motion, the committee then adjourned to 3 P. M. on Monday next. The committee comprises the following gentlemen:

Aldermen Norton, Farley, Van Voorhis, Ryers, Jeremiah. Councilmen Green, Stacom, Lent, Callaghan, Bracey.

Councilman GREEN is the Chairman, WM. HITCHMAN is Secretary, and TERRENCE SMITH is Sergeant-at-Arms.

The Fire Department Meeting.

A meeting of the Board of Representatives of the Volunteer Fire Department took place last evening at Fireman's Hall. The President stated that he had convened the board to hear reports upon the efforts made to prevent the passage of the Paid Department Bill, and to transact other business about the bill. The President added expressions of regret that a member of the board had been active in promoting the passage of the Paid Fire Department Bill. His name being called for, the President said SIDNEY P. INGRAHAM, of No. 21 Hose. A member rose and said that Mr. INGRAHAM had been expelled from his company, and that he was present in the place of Mr. INGRAHAM. This statement called out some applause.

On motion, a resolution was adopted that the expenses of the committee to Albany, not met by some previous resolutions for assessments, be provided for. Calls were made for a statement of the amount to be raised. On this resolution debate arose, turning mainly on the point how fully a report of moneys expended in opposing the Paid Fire Department law, should be made to this board, before paying. Reports were alluded to and denied, that it had been planned to draw upon the department funds to pay these Albany bills—to the extent, one gentleman hinted, of $40,000. The whole subject was finally laid on the table.

Voted, that when the meeting adjourn, it be to meet at the call of the chair, and to hear full reports respecting the expenditures in question.

The resolutions passed on Tuesday evening last, by the Board of Engineers and firemen, were now laid before the meeting, and also the communications from the Aldermen and Common Council, all of which have already appeared in the TIMES.

Mr. MURPHY, of No. 16 Hose, now offered resolutions for the appointment, by the Chair, of a committee to act with those from the Board of Engineers, the Common Council, &c., in contesting the Paid Department Bill, and for the payment of legal and other expenses so incurred. On this debate arose; considerable opinion was expressed against committing the Fire Department Fund for the payment of these expenses. The words "and other" were struck out, and the resolutions passed.

A resolution was carried that if the Volunteer Department be discontinued, the trustees of this board be directed to take measures for perpetuating the Department Fund.

A communication was read from L. L. DOTY, Chief of Bureau of Trophies at Albany, requesting the "Marshall House Flag," or "Ellsworth Flag," be deposited in that Bureau. Received, and the officers of this meeting were authorized to act in the matter.

The committee to act with that of the Common Council, &c., was named by the Chair, as Messrs. MURPHY, GORMAN and GEOGHEGAN.

Voted, that in the event of this being the last meeting of the board, the flags and other trophies in its possession be handed over to the Common Council, and all personal property in its hands to the trustees.

Inquiries being made, the President of the Board of Trustees gave an account of the action had by the trustees respecting their future control of the fund, and of a bill which the trustees have prepared, and are endeavoring to have passed, to increase their number and confirm their control of the fund.

Adjourned.

DEPARTURE OF THE ADELA AND CALYPSO.

The United States steamer Pensacola will be towed to-day or early to-morrow from the Navy-yard to Baltimore, by the United States steamers Adela and Calypso. The Pensacola, on arriving at Baltimore, will receive her machinery, which was manufactured at that place. The three vessels are already lying in the stream. The following is a list of the officers of the Adela: Acting Master Commanding, Edwin Coffin; Acting Ensigns, J. R. Goodwin, Albert C. Davis, Wm. H. Dumont, C. M. Jones, Ed. C. Remington; Acting Assistant Paymaster, George E. Martin; Acting First Assistant Engineer, George M. Bennett; Acting Second Assistant Engineers, H. C. White, Fred. A. Hutchinson; Acting Third Assistant Engineer, Aaron Varslow. The following is a list of the officers of the Calypso: Acting Volunteer Commander, Louis K. Shoeder; Acting Ensigns, W. H. Fogg, Henry J. Dunn, George C. Cassidy, Harry D. Whittemore; Acting Assistant Paymaster, Dominick Battione; Acting First Assistant Engineer, B. F. Hann; Acting Second Assistant Engineers, E. IMPORTANT TO DISABLED SEAMEN.

The recent beneficent order of the Navy Department, giving official positions at naval stations to seamen who have become disabled in the service of their country, is now being carried into effect. For this purpose, the Sanitary Commission has established a bureau at No. 35 Chambers-street, of which Gen. WINFIELD SCOTT is Chief, where the names and abilities of applicants are registered, and from which the heads of departments at the Brooklyn Navy-yard receive such disabled seamen as they need to fill vacancies in the yard. Many disabled persons lately have applied at the yard for employment, and have not received that attention which they might have expected, as the officers are overrun with applications which they have not time to examine into. By applying at the above office, their applications will receive courteous attention.

TEST OF THE MONITOR SQUANDO.

The light draft monitor Squando, launched last week at East Boston at the yard of Messrs. MCKAY & ALDIS, had her engines tested on Saturday in presence of Chief Engineer WOOD, general Inspector of iron clad machinery. All the machinery and turret gear worked harmonious, and the workmanship and materials were found to be of the best quality. She has a turret and resembles to all outward appearances a monitor on a small scale. She is the first of the twenty light draft monitors which have been raised 22 inches. As she now lays in the water she shows 32½ inches at either extremity, and 24 inches amidships; when fully equipped she will show from 18 to 20 inches of her sides.

Cooking as a Fine Art.

SUCCESS OF PROF. BLOT'S ACADEMY ASSURED.

A few days since we had the pleasure of visiting Prof. BLOT's "Cooking Academy," and listening to his instructive lecture on the art of cooking. There were between forty and fifty ladies present, and their close attention to the subjects under discussion showed that a very deep interest was felt. All of the pupils were the heads of the families of our most distinguished and wealthy citizens, with the exception, perhaps, of five or six, who, we should suppose, were the daughters of parents whose good sense and love of humanity had induced them to send them to Prof. BLOT, that they might be instructed in the art, which has so much to do with the temper of the sterner sex. The "Academy" comprises the second floor of the building No. 90 Fourth-avenue. The front room is furnished with neat settees, three rows deep on one side and two on the other, so arranged on staging that the vision of those in the back rows is not at all interfered with by the occupants of the front. In front of the fire-place is one of KANE's ranges, so built that every part of it is visible to the class. Over the fire-place is a black-board, on which is written the entire bill of fare for the day. In the centre of the room is a large table, on which the food to be cooked is prepared, in presence of the class. On one side of the fireplace, the cooking utensils are arranged in the most orderly manner; among them we noticed saucepans of all sizes, meat forks, colanders, sieves of various degrees of fineness, a mortar and pestle, dripping-pans of all sizes, tart plates, jelly-moulds—in short, everything that could be thought of as necessary to first-class cooking. Everything about the kitchen is so delightfully orderly and clean that it does one good to be there.

The Professor is a political refugee, and when he came here ten years ago, saw the necessity of a cooking school, but, being unable to speak English, could not carry out his idea until the present time. He has been teaching French in some of our schools, and has also taught in the families of several of our leading citizens. He is a person of refinement and education, and combines the chemistry of cooking thoroughly with the art. No one who listened to his pleasant and conversational lectures could help being delighted with his simplicity and clearness of style. He knows, in fact, how to teach. He is attentive to his class, always pleased and ready to answer any questions which may be put to him. The assistant, who prepares the food while Prof. BLOT is explaining every detail, is really an artiste; she does everything with so much ease and dexterity, and is so perfectly neat, that it is quite a study to watch her movements. The bill of fare on the day of our visit was: "Pot au feu," "Shad au gratin," "Vol au vent de poulet," "Salsify Béchamel sauce," "Pommes de terre en croquettes," "Tourte Francaise."

Prof. BLOT told the class that there were two hundred and fifty different sauces. One might have the same things for dinner every day in the year, only served with a different sauce, and would fancy he had a different dish every time. The Professor also says that nothing can be done without the broth or pot au feu or soup, or whatever you please to call it. He tries to inculcate in the minds of his scholars that nothing must be wasted, and shows them what to do with whatever may be left from one day to another. Each lady in the class was provided with a note book, and wrote down all the minutiæ of the preparation and cooking of each article.

The lessons occupy about two hours, in which everything on the bill is prepared and cooked with the exception of the "pot au feu," which requires five hours to simmer, so that it has to be made before the class assemble. The class for ladies is held on Tuesdays and Fridays, at 1 o'clock precisely, and closes at 3 or a little after. There is a class for servants on the same days, from 10 to 12 o'clock.

We had no idea of the poetry of cooking until we had heard and seen the charming way in which the Professor lectures, and his assistant prepares the pabulum vitæ for the benefit of those mortals who cannot live on ambrosia; though from the delicious taste of articles which we saw cooked, we scarcely think that "ambrosial food" on which the immortals live could be made more etherial and at the same time more nourishing. Epicurus himself would have given not a little to have had that kingly "shad au gratin" grace his festal board, for never was shad like it in appearance or flavor. Ere long our fair daughters will be as desirous of excelling in the haute école de cuisine as they now are of surpassing each other in their performance of difficult piano and vocal music. We augur, therefore, for Professor BLOT certain and great success, for one who has witnessed the lecture will find it almost an impossibility not to attend constantly.

The course comprises twenty lessons, with a different bill of fare for each day, and the terms are so low as to be within the reach of all who desire to understand scientific cookery.

Income Tax.

THE NEW FORM OF RETURNS.

A few copies of the amended form of returns for the income tax have been received by the assessors of internal revenue in this city, but no sufficient supply for general distribution among taxpayers. We give below the material points of the blank forms, which set forth a long array of questions requiring answer.

The detailed statements of the form are comprised under sixteen heads, covering all sources of income or profit for the year ending December 31, 1864. The following questions are to be asked by the assessor:

Had your wife any income last year?

Did any minor child of yours receive any salary last year?

Have you included in this return the income of your wife and salary received by minor children?

Have you any stocks, and what are they?

Is your report made on the basis of gold?

Have you bought or sold stocks or other property?

Have you any United States securities?

Do you return the premium on gold paid you as interest on United States securities?

Have you kept any book account?

Is your income estimated or taken from your book?

Have not the expenses, &c., claimed as deductions, already been taken out of the amount reported as profits?

Did you estimate any portion of your profits in making your returns for 1863?

Was any portion treated as worthless, and if since paid, have you included it in this return?

All incomes of 1864 less than five thousand dollars are subject to five per cent. tax; over five thousand dollars, ten per cent. The blanks must be filled and returned to the assessor by the 1st of May. Personal service of the blanks is not necessary; the assessor's duty requiring him only to make public announcement in a newspaper of his county.

Deductions are permitted as follows:

1. Exempt by law, $600.
2. All national, State and local taxes paid within the year, (which includes the deduction of the income taxes actually paid in 1864.)
3. Losses on sales of real estate purchased within the year.
4. Interest paid out or falling due within the year.
5. Amount actually paid for rent of homestead, store, or shop.
6. Insurances, repairs, fuel consumed in carrying on business, wages of employes, and interest on incumbrances.

All carriages are taxed from $1 to $10; gold watches $1 each, if worth less than $100, and $2 if worth more than $100; pianos, $1; yachts from $5 to $100; private billiard tables, $10; gold plate 50 cents per ounce Troy, and silver plate 5 cents.

The tables in the blank form are very elaborate, but the foregoing are the principal points.

Every person failing to make returns by the 15th of May next will be liable to be assessed by the assistant assessor according to the best information he can obtain; and in such case the assistant assessor will add twenty-five per cent to the amount of the tax.

In case any person shall deliver to an assessor any false or fraudulent list or statement, with intent to defeat or evade the valuation or enumeration required by law, the assistant assessor will add one hundred per cent to such duty; and in such case the list will be made out by the assessor or assistant assessor, and from the valuation and enumeration so made there can be no appeal.

The assessment list, when completed, will be returned to the Collector, who will advertise in some public newspaper published in each county within the district, "if any there be, and by written or printed notices, to be posted up in at least four places within each assessment district that the said duties have become due and payable, and state the time and place within said county at which he will attend to receive the same;" and to any sum unpaid after the 30th day of June, and for ten days after demand, there will be an addition of ten per cent., as a penalty for such neglect.

Guardians and trustees, whether such trustees are so by virtue of their office as executor, administrator or other fiduciary capacity, are required to make returns of the income belonging to minors or other persons for whom they act as guardians or trustees, and the income tax will be assessed upon the amount returned after deducting such sums as are exempted by law; provided that the exemption of six hundred dollars shall not be allowed on account of any minor or other beneficiary of a trust except upon the statement of the guardian or trustee made under oath that the minor or beneficiary has no other income from which the said amount of six hundred dollars may be exempted and deducted.

The document contains some tables for use in the conversion of avoirdupois and Troy weight.

The market was very active, but not very strong. At 9:30 P. M., Gold stood at 150⅝.

THURSDAY, April 6—P. M.

There is a very buoyant spirit on the Stock Exchange, to-day, and rapidly increasing financial confidence on Wall-street. PEACE, instead of being dreaded, in its close approach, as a temporary calamity to the Money Market, to Mercantile Credit and to sound Stock Values, is more likely, from present signs on the Street, to be welcomed, as the crowning VICTORY of the War is now welcomed, as the harbinger of a more solid and enduring prosperity in Trade and of a renewed and buoyant confidence in all that concerns Public, Mercantile, and Corporate Credits. This is wholly contrary, of course, to the theory and recent practice of a numerous and wealthy party of operators on the Stock Exchange, and to the vague fears, we may add, of a great many old and prudent business people outside the Street. But such is the prevailing temper of speculation since the fall of Richmond; promoted, it may be, by the fact that the news came upon a very low range of Railway prices at the Exchange, and of prices for the Public Stocks of the United States which had been momentarily affected by the preceding decline in Gold.

The height of the day's market for the Railways was reached after the breaking up of the Second regular Board. The excitement in Erie is the most notable feature of the day. The movement is rumored to be a war of giants as between the leading seller and buyer, both counting their wealth by millions, and either capable of selling the whole Capital Stock at 50 ℔ cent., or buying it at par. Some of the Western Stocks, which were recently much depressed, in sympathy with the breakdown in Erie, are also moving up rapidly, while New-York Central is rapidly recovering to its par value, after being sold heavily short at 80@85 ℔ cent.

The rapid advance in Governments, on Wednesday, was well supported, though there is a more quiet business on the Street. The long 6 ℔ cents of 1881 were higher than yesterday, and in demand.

The Gold Room is 3 ℔ cent. lower. The deliveries on short contracts are assisted by the arrival of the California packet with $1,604,824, of which $141,388 came from Aspinwall, and $500,000 to the Sub-Treasury Office.

At 4 o'clock the following quotations were made, as compared with the same hour yesterday. Gold, 150⅞@151 ℔ cent.:

WHY INJURE THE COMPLEXION BY POWDERS AND WASHES, which choke or fill up the pores of the skin, and in a short time leave it harsh and dry? It is in the blood, and if you want smooth and soft skin, use HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF SARSAPARILLA. It gives a brilliancy to the complexion.

CONSUMPTION—CONSUMPTION.—We say to persons having consumption, in whatever stage of the disease, use Dr. WISHART's Pine Tree Tar Cordial, which is readily taken up by the blood and carried to lungs, and the healing principles of the tar act upon the inflamed sores of the lungs and stop their decay at once, and the patient's life is saved. The Pine Tree Tar Cordial has great power to dissolve the thick mucous that stops up the wind-passages of the lungs, and expels it from the system. The Pine Tree Tar Cordial purifies the blood and cleanses it of all scrofulous matter that is constantly breeding sores, internal and external. Salt rheum, blotches on the face, and all skin diseases, are especially cured by Dr. WISHART's Pine Tree Tar Cordial. Office No. 10 North Second-street, Philadelphia.
